'COMPANY' UNIONS JOIN WITH LEWIS FOR STEEL DRIVE

250 Employee Representatives From 42 Plants in 3 Major Districts Rebel Against "Farce" and Vote C. I. O. Adherence.

ADOPT PROGRAM TO 'BORE WITHIN'

Convention Will Be Called and Operators Invited To Negotiate New Contract; Strike Hinted

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 20.—(UP)—Employees, representatives of three major steel districts in the eastern United States, rebelled tonight against the steel industry's company union plan and joined forces with John L. Lewis' committee for industrial organization.

The first big movement of company union men into the Lewis organization followed a warning by Philip M. Murray, Lewis' chief aide, that a strike in the $5,000,000,000 industry might result if the industry continues to employ its dog-in-the-manger attitude, "in dealing with trade unions."

"It has not been our purpose," he said, "to organize the industry by calling a strike. But, may I venture to say, that if the industry continues its dog-in-the-manger attitude, the responsibility of what might happen rests entirely on the doorstep of the management."

Announcing that the C. I. O. already has enrolled 128,000 of the steel industry's 500,000 workers, Murray outlined two immediate objectives of his Steel Workers Organization Committee, which he hinted would be undertaken soon:

1. The establishment of a strong, industrial trade union.
2. A national convention of that union to formulate a wage policy and invite steel leaders to a conference to negotiate a new contract.

A group of 250 company union representatives, assembled here from the Pittsburgh, the Cleveland-Koussow and the eastern districts, heard Murray, who is the S. W. O. C. chairman, appeal for organization of the workers into an industrial union.

Then, a few minutes later, they adopted resolutions unanimously condemning the company union plan as a "farce" and establishing a new organization called the "C. I. O. Representatives' Council," with this "declaration of principles":

1. All steel workers be organized into a national industrial union.
2. Employee representatives shall

Freak Accident Fatal To Georgia Brothers

GORDON, Ala., Dec. 20.—(AP)—Two brothers from Blakely, Ga., Moody Sims, 26, and Grady Sims, 18, were killed here today in an automobile accident.

Officers reported the brothers were standing by their parked automobile when another car crashed into it and knocked it over them. The bodies were taken to Dothan, Ala.

In another Alabama traffic accident over the week end, William A. Watson, 49, was struck and killed by a milk truck near Barton Station.

Dock Peace Looms; Accord Is Reached

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—(AP)—The first definite prospect of a break in the Pacific coast maritime strike came tonight when Harry Lundberg, leader of the Sailors' Union, one of the seven involved, announced a complete tentative agreement with offshore shipowners' representatives.

The accord, which was confirmed by Thomas G. Plant, of the Coast Committee for Offshore Shipowners, is subject to ratification by the membership on both sides.

Plant said he expected tentative settlement terms will also be reached, possibly tomorrow, with the Marine Firemen, Oilers, Waterenders and Wipers' Association.

INSURGENT FORCES FALL BEFORE DRIVE OF NANKING ARMY

Chiang Believed Ready to Give in for Freedom; 2 Rebel Battalions Are Captured in Onslaught.

NANKING, China, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Nanking government troops captured two mutinous battalions today in a drive to within 25 miles of Sianfu, where rebels had ignored for 30 hours an ultimatum to surrender their captive, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Government forces destroyed the battalions, stationed at Huhsein, 25 miles southwest of Sianfu which T. V. Soong, Chiang's brother-in-law, reached today to attempt negotiations with the rebel captor, Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang.

Despite the quick show of force, following expiration of Nanking's threat to take punitive measures unless Chiang were released, indications were that efforts would be made to find a compromise.

Officials generally held the belief the crisis created by capture of China's most important figure by a small army of lightly armed rebels was entering the stage during which informal "conversations" could be Franco Bolsters Left Flank for Strategic Push; Losses Are Heavy.

MADRID, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Madrid's defenders battered two Fascist flank attacks today, inflicting heavy losses in both, the government reported.

The battles were fought simultaneously in suburban Pozuelo Alarcón, just across the city limits on Madrid's northwest, and in the Somosierra sector of the Guadarrama mountain front.

The Fascists were repulsed in both charges, launched in conjunction, to strengthen the insurgent attack southward on Madrid.

Leaving the capital alone temporarily, General Francisco Franco appears to be strengthening the Fascist left flank north of the city. Recognizing potential danger from this direction, the government has been exerting steady pressure to break up the Fascist concentration there.

SENATOR NORBECK, OF DAKOTA, DIES

REDFIELD, S. D., Dec. 20.—(AP)—United States Senator Peter Norbeck, Republican, South Dakota, died today as the result of a long-time heart ailment complicated by a cancerous condition of the tongue and jaw. He was 66.

The senator underwent an operation for the cancerous condition in a Rochester (Minn.) hospital last March. The immediate cause of death, was given by Dr. P. R. Scullin, his physician, as coronary hypertension, the heart disease from which Senator Norbeck had suffered for five years.

His death ended a political career that began with his election to the state senate in 1908. He served six years in that body, then was elected lieutenant governor, and became governor of the state in 1916. He was the first native-born South Dakotan

Man Held for Burning Wife to Death in Bed

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Dec. 20.—(AP)—Detective Chief Herbert Akers announced late tonight that E. E. Grover, 46-year-old Hot Springs proprietor, will be given a preliminary hearing tomorrow on a murder charge in the "torch" death today of his wife, a pretty brunette of 35.

Mrs. Grover died in a hospital four hours after being burned in a fire which swept her room at a rooming house. Chief Akers said that she cried over and over before death, "He did it, he did it."

Akers quoted R. L. Castleberry, proprietor, as saying he heard the couple quarreling in the room twice last night.

The detective chief said officers found burned matches on the springs of the blazing mattress where Mrs. Grover was discovered by roomers.

Sale of Big Brother Papers Brings in $2,262 for Needy

Atlantans Open Their Hearts and Pour More Cash Into Coeffers To Bring Yuletide Happiness to Homes of Many Facing Want and Despair

Christmas bells will ring out a message of real cheer and happiness to hundreds of the neediest homes of Greater Atlanta Christmas morning where there would have been only forlorn despair if something the great Atlanta spirit did yesterday had not happened.

In other words, the fourth annual Big Brothers' Christmas fund drive for the needy went "over the top" with flying colors and a great jingling of coins to the amount of $2,262 was collected in the sale of the special Big Brothers' edition of The Constitution.

Big Brother majors, captains and volunteers covered the city yesterday with copies of the special edition, carrying with them a plea for help for the poor to which Atlanta responded with the same old spirit which makes this city the home of the "good neighbor."

American Legion posts, church organizations, civic clubs and unaffiliated individuals joined in the big paper sale campaign to make it a foregone success, with the generous spirit of Atlanta backing it up from the start.

Perry Bechtel and his slide swing orchestra, besides playing numerous times in Big Brothers' broadcast troupe, got out yesterday and spent practically the entire day selling copies of the Big Brothers' edition, and

SJOBLOM KILLER SEIZED AT TAMPA

Hoyt Summers, formerly of Atlanta, convicted slayer of Max Sjoblom, and Jimmie Hobbs were jailed yesterday in Tampa, Fla., after their capture in a suburban woods with an automobile allegedly stolen in Leesburg, Fla.

Constable Fred Newberger said the pair admitted they had escaped from prison near Albany, Ga., where Summers was serving a life term for murder and Hobbs a five-year sentence for automobile theft.

Summers was under a life sentence for the slaying of Sjoblom, a salesman from Davenport, Iowa, at Marietta street at Spring in 1934, when he and Joe Riley attempted to hold up the Davenport salesman and killed him when he offered resistance. Riley

Russia May Treat Rebels as Pirates

(Copyright, 1936, by United Press.)
LONDON, Monday, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Soviet Russia may propose that all Spanish Rebel warships be listed as "pirate craft" to be fired on wherever they are encountered, the United Press learned today.

No definite action will be taken by Russia, however, until full details are learned of the reported firing of the Soviet steamer Kom-somol while a Rebel warship stood by.

Some reports said the Kom-somol sunk with her officers and crew of 25 or 30 men off the Algerian coast December 14.

POPE THREATENED WITH INFLUENZA; GROWING WEAKER

Pontiff Suffering From a High Fever; Old Age Specialist Called to Bed-side of His Holiness.

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Pope Pius suffered a fainting spell at 5 p. m. today, Vatican sources said, due to irregular heart action. A specialist on the ill of old age was called in for consultation.

The Pontiff recovered quickly from the attack but was reported very weak, suffering a high fever and possibly influenza to complicate his already manifold afflictions.

The specialist, summoned by Dr. Amanti Milani, the pontiff's personal physician, was Senator Nicola Pende, widely known in Europe as an authority in endocrinology and constitutional weaknesses.

He received a thorough review of the Pope's attack of partial paralysis of the legs and poor circulatory condition, then withdrew into the pontiff's bed chamber.

Both physicians agreed the pontiff, forced to observe in bed the anniversary of his ordination into the priesthood 57 years ago, must agree to even

Wallis Simpson is always soignée. You would call it fastidious, perhaps. I wonder if that isn't one of her characteristics that appeals most to the former King Edward VIII. It was a quality most apparent in her, and probably to most men.

It showed in her make-up, in the management of flowers in her home, the way an ash tray appears magically at your elbow, the way she wears her clothes, her conversation of English servants to the American ideal of service.

Worst Temblor Hits San Vicente During Church Fete; Soldiers Called; Dead Heaped in Park.

SAN SALVADOR, Dec. 20.—(UP)—More than 200 persons were killed and 400 injured in earthquakes, accompanied by volcanic eruptions, which devastated eight cities today, according to official estimates tonight.

Center of the earth tremors was around the city of San Vicente.

With communications down, full extent of the damage could not be estimated.

Injured survivors were brought to San Salvador by Red Cross workers dispatched by the government.

New quakes occurred in San Vicente tonight, crumbling walls which had cracked in the first violent movements.

The quakes aroused long-dormant volcanoes. The entire department of San Vicente lies within the area of old volcanic mountains.

First and most violent of the quakes occurred in mid-morning just as a crowd of several thousands in San Vicente was participating in a religious procession. The panic of the populace caused many injuries.

Only one building was left standing here—until today a town of 26,000 population—disappeared.

Earth shocks were continuing, indicating that every structure in the town might be leveled.

The church procession, headed by the image of Saint Vincent—the town's patron saint—was converging in the city's main square when the earthquake struck.

Buildings toppled and many were killed. Rescue workers were trapped when additional buildings collapsed in a second great shock.

Hordes of dead were heaped in a park. Volcanic eruptions followed the

Rivers, Aides Leave For Capital Parleys

Governor-elect Rivers and a small group of advisors left yesterday for Washington for a series of conferences with federal officials on problems of mutual interest.

Rivers expects to see Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress Administrator; Thomas H. MacDonald, director of the Federal Bureau of Roads; Secretary Harold Ickes, of the Department of the Interior; and John G. Winant, director of the Social Security Board.

Those accompanying the Governor-elect were Representative Roy Harris, of Augusta, an unopposed speaker of the house; State Senator John R. Spivey, of Swainsboro, candidate for president of the senate; Charles S. Reid, of Atlanta, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee; and J. Harold Saxon, of Quitman, president of the Georgia Education Association.

Rivers planned to return to Georgia Wednesday so that he may spend Christmas with his family at Lakeland, Ga.

BIG BROTHERS' PAPERS BRING SUM OF $2,262

turned in a whole bagful of good cheer contributions at the end of the day. The ninth ward hit top place in the ward competition for the greatest amount collected for the Christmas fund, working under the spirited leadership of Major Guy O. Guest, and was presented the high-ward silver loving cup for its energetic efforts.

Tenth Ward Winner.
J. Ed Peek was the all-time high captain in the Big Brothers activities, backed by his hard-working tenth ward captains and volunteers. He also got a loving cup for his efforts, as did Captain J. Floyd Johnston, of the ninth ward, the one-day high captain.

Mr. Johnston also annexed a cup as high individual ward "scorer" in the gloom-chasing game of Christmas cheer.

Captain L. O. Moseley received a loving cup also when he really "went to town" in the competition for the cup offered in the downtown section.

Yes sir, the Big Brothers majors, captains and their volunteer workers put in a fast and hard day's work to make Christmas a happy time for those needy families. But it would be the height of something or other not to give a big load of credit to all those Atlantans who really made the Christmas fund drive such a success by purchasing copies of the special edition and attending the fourth annual Big Brothers charity ball given last Thursday.

To you Atlantans who contributed so generously, the Big Brothers and the many needy families who will be given happiness this Christmas say "thank you—your spirit was fine, your response generous and the good you have done is immeasurable."

Barfield Chairman.
Harry Barfield, hard-working and tireless chairman of the 1936 paper sale committee, expressed it in just about those words last night as the returns from the big paper sale began pouring in.

"Like every other Big Brother worker, I am delighted with the results of this Christmas fund campaign," he declared. "We will be able to take care of about 100 more families than we originally thought we would, and the thanks go to the scores of volunteer workers and to the generous spirit of Atlantans which made the big success of the drive possible."

"On Christmas morning, these many contributing Atlantans can enjoy the realization that their hearty response will avert despair and heartbreak in hundreds of poor families and bring joy and the contentment which comes with a real family Christmas celebration."

And so, the Big Brothers sign off to Atlanta for another year and prepare to go about their work of building up great baskets of Christmas cheer—food, clothing, candy, toys, fruit and "all the trimmings" for those needy families.

Yes—now it will be a happy time for them, and the Big Brothers say to you: "A very merry Christmas."

Here are a few of the Atlantans who gave generously of their services yesterday that Christmas shall be a red letter day in the lives of underprivileged children and needy families of the Gate City. REBELS ARE BATTERED IN 2 MADRID ATTACKS

1808, a victory for Napoleon's troops in Somosierra, high in the Guadarrama mountains, opened the way for the French to sweep down on the Spanish capital.

In preparation to meet an insurgent maneuver into attacking position north and east of the city, the government declared Pueblo Nuevo, two miles from Ventas, in the war zone and ordered the defense system strengthened.

Both sides exchanged heavy artillery fire in the ruins of University City in the northwest section of the city.

Insurgent reconnaissance planes droned overhead but dropped no bombs.

Fascists Driven Off.
Dispatches from Bilbao reported Fascist attacks on Nafarrate in the Bay of Biscay region were driven off after Madrid aviation dumped more than 150 bombs into the insurgent positions.

The Communist newspaper Mundo Obrero published reports regular German army troops have arrived on the Madrid front and were expected to reinforce General Franco's line.

Militiamen reported they encountered black-shirted troops yesterday for the first time when they recaptured 300 yards near Portufo. The Fascists, they said, were hanging suspended from their belts and were believed to be Italians.

Despite reports General Franco will postpone until spring trying to force the capital into surrender and may turn his fire toward other sections, newspapers generally warn the "big offensive" should be expected momentarily. They implore inhabitants of exposed zones to evacuate.

The war ministry, reporting gains for the defense force near Pozuelo and Uteza, in south Madrid, estimated its losses in recent operations at 500 as compared to 2,000 for the Fascists.

FASCISTS LAUNCH AIR, SEA ATTACKS
PERPIGNAN, France, Dec. 20.—(P)—Spanish Fascists launched a new sea and air attack along the Catalan coast today. Bombs dropped close to the international railway tunnel near here.

Two dozen cannon shots were heard along the Franco-Spanish border about 7:45 a. m. and it was established later the shots were from a Fascist warship firing on a government freighter anchored off Culera.

Shortly afterward an insurgent airplane joined in the attack in an unsuccessful effort to drop bombs into the boat.

Here is a typical scene, re-enacted many times over yesterday in Atlanta homes. Shown here is the family of C. L. Donaldson, 196 Twelfth street, N. E., reading the Big Brother edition of The Constitution. Their purchase of the paper will help in bringing Yuletide happiness to some needy Atlanta family.

C. ELMER SMITH, 73, DIES IN PENNSYLVANIA

Former Power Developer Was Interested in Two Georgia Plants.

YORK, Pa., Dec. 20.—(P)—C. Elmer Smith, president of the S. Morgan Smith Company, of York, manufacturer of turbine waterwheels, died today at his residence, "Brookside," south of York. He was 73.

As a developer and builder of hydroelectric power plants, Smith's holdings were large in Georgia and Alabama. In 1900, the S. Morgan Smith Company became interested in the development of hydroelectric power plant on the Chattahoochee river, near Atlanta, which furnished electric power for an Inman Park trolley. The photo was made at Worland avenue and Ponce de Leon, while Big Brother E. B. Davidson looks on with approval.

Smith was interested in the building of the Tallulah Falls development, an immense project from which power was furnished to utility companies in Georgia and the Carolinas, and to the companies operating in Atlanta.

A merger, accomplished through the Georgia Railway and Power Company about 1914, brought Atlanta companies into the organization and Smith served as director on the boards of the several companies. In 1929, all the properties in Georgia and Alabama were acquired by the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation and Smith retired from active participation.

SURVEY OF RELIGION IS ORDERED IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW, Dec. 20.—(P)—Russia ordered a survey today of religion among the people, expecting to find growing disbelief in God.

Whether he believes in God will be one of the five principal questions asked each citizen over 16 in the national census next month. The other questions will ask the name, age, occupation, and whether married.

Expecting the census will show belief in God has practically disappeared from the Soviet Union, newspapers have devoted lengthy articles urging the people to answer frankly, reminding them the answers will be secret and that those who still profess the faith are entitled to freedom of worship by constitutional guarantees.

TWO REBEL BATTALIONS CAPTURED BY NANKING

complain more than any official pronouncements of blunt action.

Chang May Leave.
Although the government reiterated formal declarations it would refuse to negotiate with Chang, officials said they were inclined to believe reports that Chang was willing to surrender his captive and quit the country in return for a guarantee of personal safety.

Generalissimo Chiang has been held prisoner since a week ago yesterday. It was believed Soong, former minister of finance, hoped to prevail on Marshal Chang to release his captive because of their long friendship of other days, when Chang was powerful war lord of Manchuria.

Dr. Soong did not represent the government in his efforts to free his brother-in-law, a government spokesman said.

"He has gone on his personal initiative," the spokesman asserted. "He will act as family representative. The government will not participate in such degrading negotiations."

Early yesterday hope was high that Chang would be freed quickly and permit sudden end to the civil war. When the Chinese army leader did not appear a government official said: "With profound regret we must disclose that our hopes for General Chiang have not materialized. He has founded rumors of his release caused false hopes in the nation."

Old Truce Revoked.
Nanking troops in the Sianfu region moved into action apparently to enforce an ultimatum issued yesterday, revoking a previous announcement Marshal Chang would be given until Tuesday evening to free Chiang and other Nanking leaders held with him.

The latest order for punitive action was taken to indicate new difficulties had arisen.

Military officials, professing ignorance of happenings along the Shensi province border, held that it should be evident now our original conviction was correct, that the only solution is military force and to quit wasting time talking.

Principal obstacle to any compromise, assuring safety of the Rebel chief and release of General Chiang, was believed to be the question of an aggressive policy against Japan.

Chang demanded at the outset of his revolt that the government declare war against the Japanese neighbor to halt "Japan's continued encroachments on China's territorial and administrative integrity."

Control to General Yen.
Paramount personal concern of Marshal Chang, it was said, was his own safety. Should he go into voluntary exile abroad, custom of defeated Chinese generals, informed observers believed he would turn over his troops to General Yen Hsi-shan, pacification commissioner for Shensi and Suiyuan provinces.

General Yen has been acting as mediator in conferences between representatives of the Nanking government and agents of the Rebel leader. Apparently government and Rebels had been near to compromise yesterday, official pronouncements indicated, but today's punitive action was believed proof that negotiations were disrupted.

The government for a time yesterday was inclined to treat Chang's rebellion in milder terms. A spokesman pointed out the treatment of his captives had been "exemplary, considerate and polite."

He said "Chang even knelt before the generalissimo entreating him to consent to terms which would constitute a compromise."

A short time later, came official announcement that Shao Yuan-shung, member of Chiang's staff and one-time editor of Chinese papers in the United States and Canada, was slain in the Sianfu uprising.

Coupled with this was the announcement that the truce declared effective until Tuesday had been revoked.

Company Unions Join Lewis in Steel Drive.

use their influence to enroll the steel workers into the S. W. O. C. campaign.

3. All steel workers shall be thoroughly informed by employees' representatives who know from experience that the company union is a device of the management and totally unable to win any major concessions for the steel workers.

4. C. I. O. employee representatives shall remain inside the company union for reasons obvious to all.

Increase "Unsatisfactory."
Assailing the recent "cost-of-living" wage increase granted by the steel industry as "unsatisfactory," the "insurgents" formulated new demands and referred them to the S. W. O. C. "as our recommendation for consideration to the National Convention of Steel Workers."

That convention, they added, would be called in the near future.

The new council asked:

1. A $5 minimum for labor, and $12.4 a day increase for all employees receiving over $5 a day.

2. A 6-hour day and a five-day week.

3. Vacations with pay of one week for all employees with two or more years' service and two weeks' paid vacation for those with five or more years' service.

4. Time and one-half for overtime within the regular working week and double time for Sunday and holiday work.

42 Plant Representatives.
The meeting was attended by regularly elected employees' representatives from 42 plants. Each of the three districts previously had organized a separate council and the action of today's session merged them and established them definitely as a C. I. O. organization.

The eastern district, last to organize into a district council, included representatives from plants in Harrisburg, Bethlehem, Baltimore and New Jersey.

The representatives came from steel districts which employ in all 290,000 men, more than half the total employment in the industry. Their attack on the company union plan emphasized that the plan also was under attack in Washington, where the National Labor Relations Board opened a hearing last week on charges that the Carnegie-Illinois plan interfered with the organization of workers.

Murray's speech followed by one day a prediction by an unnamed Lewis associate in Washington that a strike in the steel industry is "almost inevitable."

Attacking the employees' representation plan, Murray said "We are going to kill it as dead as the proverbial door nail."

"We want the employees' representation plan in this country put out of business," he shouted, "and it is going to be stopped not only by the National Labor Relations Board but by the men in the mills."

"It must be stopped in your interest and in the interest of the country."

While the S. W. O. C. has reported a steady inflow of employee representatives into its ranks, Murray said, the meeting it was the first "mass" movement of the company union men into the C. I. O., whose aim is to organize steel and other mass production industries on an industrial basis.

The "insurgents," however, were only a small part of the total number of steel employees' representatives, said to be about 4,000.

200 DEAD, 400 HURT IN SALVADOR 'QUAKE

earthquakes and were accompanied by hot winds.

Several hundred terrified survivors had reached San Salvador tonight. Two priests, a nun, three soldiers and many women and children in the religious procession were killed by the first shock.

Some reports said 150 had been killed and that San Vicente had been destroyed, with only the public clock tower remaining upright.

Two trains bearing about 500 injured arrived here.

Families from San Vicente were fleeing to Apastepeque where minor quakes were reported.

President Martinez, accompanied by members of the cabinet, visited the destroyed city at noon. The minister of the interior acted as chief of the emergency service.

Several trains left here carrying medical equipment and supplies. The social assistance society announced it would allot 1,000,000 colones for construction of San Vicente. The Red Cross appealed for aid.

Newspapers Rend Roads.
Newspapers here printed increasing figures of dead and injured.

The whole of the rich central area of San Salvador was twisted by the shocks.

Scores were buried in the wreckage of homes and buildings in this town alone.

Roads to the interior were rent by crevasses.

Military units were mobilized to preserve order in the devastated areas and aid in caring for thousands of homeless.

The towns of Tepetitlan, Apastepeque, Vera Paz, San Esteban, San Cayetano, Tecolua and San Sebastian were said to have been wrecked.

The stricken areas have the densest population in Central America. The soil of the towns affected by the quake are in the vicinity of the extinct San Vicente volcano. The area, important in manufacturing and agriculture, is in the rich tobacco and indigo-growing region.

Quakes Strike Often.
El Salvador lies on the Pacific side, north of Nicaragua.

Disastrous quakes have struck the area before.

In 1854 and again in 1873, the capital, San Salvador, was destroyed by earthquakes. As early as 1797 a vio-more complete rest than he has permitted himself during his three weeks of illness.

Visitors Limited.
The Holy Father's visitors will be limited to the ten cardinals who are prefects or chairmen of executive bodies of the church.

One each day will come for the 79-year-old spiritual leader's authorization for their most important decisions. Previously it was thought all 26 cardinals of the curia could be permitted to present their Christmas greetings.

This was abandoned, however, at the advice of the physicians as too tiring for the sick man.

Although an official bulletin described the pontiff's condition as satisfactory, Dr. Milani indicated concern.

Fever Increases.
The fever touched 100.5 last night and increased during the day, because of this, reliable sources said, the pontiff was most uncomfortable.

The spiritual leader of 350,000,000 Catholics was greatly troubled also by continued faulty blood circulation, general physical decadence of age, and partial paralysis of the legs.

He was carried briefly from his bed to an armchair today and received Cardinal Marcetti Selvaggiani, vicar of the Rome archdiocese, with whom he discussed several diocesan matters.

The cardinal presented him with Christmas greetings with the traditional phrase "Ad multos annos"—long life.

His Holiness contented himself by listening to services from his private chapel, adjacent to his bedroom, recited by one of his secretaries, Monsignor Vignati.

Many parish priests adopted the suggestion of the Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper, by urging children to pray for the Pope's recovery.

GIVES HOME TO STATE.
PATERSON, N. J., Dec. 20.—(P)—Historic Ringwood manor, at Ringwood, the home of General Robert Erskine, geographer to General Washington during the Revolutionary War, has been given to the state of New Jersey by Erskine Hewitt in memory of his sister, Eleanor G. Hewitt, the Paterson Morning Call will say tomorrow.

F. D. R. JR. READY TO LEAVE.
BOSTON, Dec. 20.—(P)—Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., 24, third son of the President, will be discharged "Wednesday or Thursday" from Phillips' House of Massachusetts General hospital where he has been confined for nearly a month with sinus and throat infections, his physician told the United Press tonight.

SLAYER ATTENDS CHURCH.
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 20.—(P)—Martin Sullivan, 76, muff-smuffing policeman who admitted killing five persons, went to church today. Sullivan, accused of shooting down three women and two men in suburban Duquesne because he believed them responsible for charges he mistreated a little girl, was led into the chapel of the Allegheny county jail for Sabbath services.

PRaises Democrats.
BALTIMORE, Dec. 20.—(P)—Henry Morgenthau Jr., secretary of the treasury, told the brotherhoods of 16 Baltimore synagogues tonight that only under a Democratic system of government can the welfare and liberties of minority groups be preserved.

lent quake struck the region and other sections of Central America and killed 40,000 persons.

In near-by Costa Rica an earthquake in May, 1910, killed 1,500 at Cartago, and in December, 1917, Guatemala had a quake in which 2,500 perished.

The last serious earthquake in Central America was in Nicaragua in 1931, when 1,000 died.

Christmas-New Year

LONG DISTANCE CALLS

AT REDUCED RATES

THIS YEAR you can express your holiday greetings to out-of-town relatives and friends by telephone any time Christmas or New Year's day at the low night rates.

The regular low night rates for both Station-to-Station and Person-to-Person calls will extend from 7 P. M. December 24 until 4:30 A. M. December 26 and from 7 P. M. December 31 until 4:30 A. M. January 2.

This will mean a substantial saving for those who will want to send Christmas and New Year greetings in the personal, friendly way that the telephone alone affords.

With these rates in effect Christmas and New Year's day, you can talk 100 miles on a Station-to-Station call for as little as 40¢; five hundred miles, $1.15, or one thousand miles, $2.00, and greater or less distance at correspondingly low cost.

Take advantage of this opportunity to give your relatives and friends the thrill of receiving your good wishes from you in person by telephone. Ask the long distance operator for rates.

MRS. SIMPSON NOTED FOR FASTIDIOUSNESS

invariably manages her face with a specially prepared camphor cream. That comes immediately after an application of cleansing cream.

She never begins her make-up without an astringent lotion to remove every vestige of the camphor cream. A flush of rouge, a touch of mascara on her eyelashes, a delicate shade of blue on the eyelids, the lightest dusting of powder and a choice of lipstick. The lipstick she uses during the day is replaced the moment the electric lights go on.

She chooses every item of her clothing with the utmost care. It might take her half an hour to decide between two shades of stockings or gloves in a store. Yet, shop girls adore her. She never snaps at them or questions their anxiety to please. It might take her a day to select a hat, but when she has it, it never fails to be becoming. And it is always small.

Can't Wear Floppy Hats.
"I can't wear floppy hats," she told me. "My neck is too long. They make me look like a toad-stool."

She likes to inspect herself from three angles just to be sure nothing is amiss. Over her dressing table at 16 Cumberland Terrace is, or was (the place is empty now), a triple mirror.

I would like to describe the home in which Wallis Simpson lived, but I find I am entering through the boudoir. This is no place for a man. Let's go downstairs. Or, better yet, let's go outside and look the place over before we enter through the front door. Pictures of her "residence" have appeared in various mediums of public information. One saw a vast, palatial structure of Grecian persuasion, with half a hundred windows, a Corinthian facade, and a general Neo-and central, early American penitentiary atmosphere that staggered the man on the street.

The captions were correct. That was a picture of her home, all right. But the photographers overlooked the fact that it was the home of nine other happily-circumstanced Londoners as well. It was, in brief, the London version of a Park Avenue, New York, apartment house and Mrs. Simpson's home might well be compared with an American duplex apartment.

Faces Public Park.
It faces a vast public park and is very quiet. Hurrying through the throng of newsmen and photographers standing outside, I stepped through the quickly opened door. Peering through the glass curtains at this persistent halo of the press, a few hours later Wallis' aunt, Mrs. Bessie Merriman, remarked: "Why can't they go away and let us alone? They've driven Wallis away

Wally Proved Artistry in Decorating Home

The exquisite appointments that lay behind this rather severe and forbidding facade at 16 Cumberland Terrace, London, while it was the home of Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson are described by Newbold Noyes in today's installment of the fascinating series giving the only authorized accounts of Edward's romance. "Exquisite" is the word employed by Mr. Noyes, who says it is the only one to sum up the ensemble. He points out the building is the equivalent of an American duplex apartment.

I understood and sympathized with her attitude.

"But, Aunt Bessie," I reminded her, "remember they're doing no more than their job. When you come right down to it, I'm a newspaper man, too."

You enter 16 Cumberland Terrace through a gridded glass door and find yourself in a typical small English "house." On the left is the dining room and beyond is the study, occupied mainly by Mrs. Simpson's secretary, a very busy person, handling all the fan and crank mail, with admirable speed. There is no one in all her retinue that Wallis does—and must—trust more than this English girl.

Extraordinary Mirrors.
Against the right-hand wall of the hall stands one of the most extraordinary mirrors I ever saw. Ten feet square, it is made of a series of segments of mirrors set at 90-degree angles, perpendicularly. The decorative effect is not only unusual, but it has the practical advantage of enabling a feminine guest to see herself coming, going or even meeting herself.

At the top of a straight flight of stairs you find yourself in a large L-shaped living room which occupies the entire second floor, except for a cocktail alcove at the back of the stair well. This alcove was the only room in the house which appeared stiff, and, as a consequence, unused.

Friends, books and homes are the essential keywords to those who possess them. Wallis Simpson's living room was a true index to its chateau. "Dieu et mon droit."

That was the motto on a solid gold inkwell standing on an antique wooden desk. It means "God and My Right." It is the motto of English sovereigns and was chosen by Richard I as his password in the Battle of Gloucestre in 1198. Perhaps it has an added significance now.

In French Green.
The whole room, curtains, carpets, woodwork and walls, is done in French green, a green with a bluish cast.

There is a full grand piano (she plays it fairly well). There is a beautiful antique walnut secretary as the centerpiece on the west wall. The fireplace, fed with coal from a brass-bound mahogany wine-cooler, stands at the end of the room. Three windows look out upon the park. There is a comfortable sofa beside the fireplace, a love seat near the piano. Seven chairs complete the seating arrangements. Four of these are upholstered and three stiff-backed.

Casual tables, each a gem of its type, are where they do the most good.

A low fireside, with a lovely antique brocade, stands before the hearth. And, by the door, shielding the far end of the room, is an antique Chinese screen of gold and silver lacquer depicting a woodland rendezvous of graceful deities.

Exquisite is the only word that could describe the final appointments of this room. Rare pieces of jade are advantageously placed. On the table at your elbow is an invaluable snuff box containing your cigarettes and a French wine taster to receive your ashes. The seven lamps in the room are shaded in rose vellum.

Books, beautifully bound in hand-tooled leather, are casually available. And then there are the flowers.

Plenty of Flowers.
On mantel, tables and piano, Wallis' love of an taste in the blue choice floral coloring runs to white and yellow. Lilies, roses and tiny orchids, all in tones of yellow and white, enhance the mahogany beauties of this perfect room. The orchids peep out from sprays of ivy.

"Wallis loves flowers," Aunt Bessie said. "Flowers typify her love for growing things. Fresh ones come every day."

Another straight flight of stairs leads to Wallis' bedroom. A large but simple French bed with a brocade cover stands at right angles to the door. Telephones are on a table beside it and there is a gadget with push buttons for the servants.

The dressing table faces the bed at the opposite end of the room and above its triple mirror hangs an antique star-faced clock. Wallis is a very punctual person. Two or three chairs and a chaise longue complete the furnishings.

A dressing room and a bathroom complete the third-floor suite. On the walls of the dressing room hang simply framed photographs of Edward VIII in various phases of his professional career—in groups, in single studies, in uniform and in mufti.

The fourth floor is a simplified version of the third, and it is there that Aunt Bessie has climbed with moans and grumbles ever since she came to England to chaperone her favorite niece.

This is the picture of Wallis Simpson's home.

It is dismantled now. And, as my mind runs back over it, it dwells upon a miniature of Wallis Simpson—slim and dark and enigmatic—that stood on a table beside the living room chair in which the king was wont to sit. I wonder where it is now.

(In the seventh installment of Mr. Noyes' story to appear tomorrow, he further delineates the comradeship of Edward and Mrs. Simpson.)

ROOSEVELT, LANDON TO MEET AGAIN TODAY
WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Victor and Roosevelt will meet tomorrow for a brief chat and probably a few chuckles at reminiscences of the campaign.

At President Roosevelt's invitation, Governor Alf M. Landon, of Kansas, will call at the White House and be ushered into the spacious circular presidential office which he once occupied.

Meantime, while an extensive search was made throughout the eastern states for Bruno, four members of his family, who were taken to the Kalamazoo massacre, were transferred to Eastern state penitentiary in Philadelphia.

WALLY WILL NOT SEE EDWARD UNTIL SPRING

Friend of Ex-King Reported Much Interested in Things Outside Villa.

CANNES, France, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson made known today "there is no possibility" she will see the Duke of Windsor before the spring.

For the first time in her life, the woman for whom Edward VIII abdicated the throne of England talked to the press at a formal conference.

Clad in a trim sports costume and graciously hospitable, Mrs. Simpson received a few correspondents in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Rogers' Villa Lou Vie.

For a half hour she smiled and chatted vivaciously with the newspapermen, enjoying several laughs over the interest of the world in her affairs.

She consented to the meeting—which might have been called a social reception—after months of refusals to entertain the press in any manner or to be interviewed.

The meeting was arranged on two conditions: That no questions be put to Mrs. Simpson and that she could not be quoted.

An exception was made for the final remark which she blurted out teasingly after saying goodbye.

"Perhaps you would be interested to know—"

The newspapermen were alert, expecting an important announcement.

"That I shall go for a drive this afternoon."

Mrs. Simpson talked about the weather. She discussed the beauty of the Riviera scenery. She commented on the dangers of mountain roads. She even expressed amusement over reports she had been seen on the way to Egypt and countless other places during the past few days.

Rogers, her host, disclosed Mrs. Simpson would remain at the villa "for several months" and had planned "nothing special" for Christmas.

Rogers escorted the correspondents into the rich gardens of his estate where Mrs. Simpson is remaining in seclusion.

Mrs. Simpson, accompanied by Mrs. Rogers, stepped into the gardens and welcomed each visitor with a warm greeting and a firm handshake. Her callers were presented by Rogers.

She seemed to be in excellent health and spirits and completely composed. Her only sign of nervousness was an occasional drawing of her lips with her handkerchief.

She proved to be a witty conversationalist and a good listener. When she asked courteous questions concerning her guests, she listened frequently, she waited for the answers as though intensely interested.

Her costume was an agreeable combination of blue and brown. She wore a tight-fitting skyblue sport skirt and an open-throated blue-and-brown plaid jacket over a deep blue pullover sweater.

Her alligator skin oxfords had medium high walking heels.

A brooch she wore at the neck of her sweater resembled the three-feathered insignia of former King Edward when he was the Prince of Wales. It was an arrangement of alternating light and dark blue petals and was complemented by earrings to match.

She wore one broad ring covered with sparkling stones and a gold chain bracelet from which dangled six little emerald and amethyst crosses.

Her lips were scarlet but her fingernails were not tinted.

Throughout most of the conversation, Mrs. Simpson remained standing, first under an orange tree and then along the vine-covered wall of the terrace which leads down to the sea.

Mrs. Simpson, slim and small, seemed very demure at times. The woman who shook an empire exhibited as much curiosity on what was going on outside the villa as the neighborhood has shown for what was taking place inside.

Her manner of speech shows no distinguishable accent, although it is more American than British and more southern than northern.

Not what she says, but the way she speaks, contributes most to her charm. In the same way it is her graceful carriage more than her figure and her smile more than her features which convey her beauty.

DUKE ENDS WEEK'S EXILE IN VERY JOVIAL MOOD
ENZESFELD, Austria, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Three airplanes circled over the grounds of Enzesfeld castle today when former King Edward was golfing on his private course.

Police said one of the ships was a red plane of German manufacture. Chubby boys said one plane dipped very low over the golf course and dropped Nazi, Austrian and British flags. It was not possible immediately to verify their story from other sources.

Two planes were believed to have carried movie cameramen.

Unauthorized persons caught on the chess grounds were fined two shillings (about 37 cents) each. About 50 paid.

The end of Edward's first week of exile found him in a mood as bright as his flaming orange pajamas.

The Duke's dog, Slippers, made the most exciting news of the chateau. Recovered from his scuffling by the baroness De Rothschild's dog, Chew-Chew, Edward's cairn terrier awoke the household early with his triumphant barks. Single-handed, he caught a mouse.

Returning from services at the picturesque chapel just outside the chateau gates, the baroness smiled and waved up at Edward who, in his orange night clothes, called "cheery good morning" from his bedroom window.

In the baroness' rooms were big bunches of bright chrysanthemums which, members of the household said, Windsor gave her.

After midnight last night a hazy light and Edward strolled arm-in-arm with the baroness through the heavily wooded grounds. Their voices could be heard in the crisp starlit night singing Syrian mountain songs.

Later the baroness sang alone and Edward accompanied her whistling lustily, although slightly off-key.

SEARCH IS CONTINUED FOR ESCAPED SLAYER
POTTSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 20.—(UP)—Joseph J. Bruno, 52-year-old murderer whose sensational escape last week invoked an investigation by state officials, never was taken to a dentist's office, Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti charged tonight.

Margiotti said he was convinced that the former Republican leader, who received three separate life sentences for the slaying of five electioneering parade marchers in 1934, knew he was free the minute he left the Schuylkill county jail.

WOOLEN AND WORSTED PROFITS ARE HIGHEST SINCE LATE '33 PERIOD

Spinners Earn 4.6 Per Cent; Material Cost Over Double That of Labor.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—The Federal Trade Commission reported today woolen and worsted manufacturers showed the highest rate of return on investments for the second half of 1935 since the July-December period of 1933.

Profits the second half of the year, the commission reported, were "substantially higher" than during the first six months. The report was based on an analysis of labor costs, profits and investments of 238 firms.

The proportion of the reporting spinning and weaving company's total mill costs absorbed by labor averaged slightly less for the second half of the year than for the first. Raw materials, however, absorbed a larger proportion of costs.

Fifty-nine spinning companies with an aggregate investment of $39,400,000 reported a total net income before payment of interest and income taxes of $1,735,000.

The return on a semi-annual basis was 4.39 per cent on the investment compared to 3.08 per cent reported by 51 companies in the first half of 1935.

The proportion of total mill costs represented by raw materials, including a small amount of processing taxes, was 66.33 per cent. The labor cost proportion was 22.16 per cent.

Net profits on total sales amounted to 4.6 per cent compared to 3.5 per cent for the first six months.

'Girl on Front Page' Opens Run at Capitol

An outstanding success in the days of silent pictures, Edmund Lowe, now featured with Gloria Stuart in "The Girl on the Front Page," which started a week's run at the Capitol theater yesterday, is a Hollywood favorite who has added lustre to his name since the advent of sound.

Some people crave publicity and others shrink from it, but "The Girl on the Front Page" is a picture that spreads scandal about her in this interesting newspaper story. Gloria Stuart is a society debutante who inherits a newspaper from her father. Her managing editor is portrayed by Edmund Lowe, who proves himself a comedian of exceptional skill. He scores laughs that come right from the waistline.

The picture presents new angles on the newspaper movie and sparkles with comedy dialog. In this gaily-paced comedy-romance, Reginald Owen has the role of a blackmailing butler. Spring Byington is seen as Gloria Stuart's mother and Gilbert Emery as the family lawyer. Edmund Lowe and Gloria Stuart give a highly amusing performance. Realism is added to the film when Howard Hanson, former Missouri newspaperman, takes the role of a reporter on a metropolitan paper. "The Girl on the Front Page," is directed by Harry Beaumont.

Through special arrangement, Uncle Ezra Jones and his radio gang appears on the stage this week. The stage show is entitled "Barn Dance Frolics" and Uncle Ezra Jones is Billy Hall, of Lewiston, Maine, for several years has been a favorite comedian of the stage and radio.

In the "Frolics," there are other performers, including the old honored quartet; Seth and Lydia, music from mouth organs to jazz; "The Home of the Future," the original "Elmer"; Lula Mae and Bob; Kentucky mountain singers and dancers; Adler and Dunbar, Rose and Harry and Zeke Hoff's hillbilly band from Virginia.—S. Republican Senator Dies

SENATOR PETER NORBECK.

SEN. PETER NORBECK IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

to become chief executive and United States senator of that state. He was elected to the latter post in 1920.

Terminating himself as "Theodore Roosevelt Republican," Senator Norbeck frequently found himself in disagreement with leaders of the Republican party, and came to be regarded as leaning toward the insurgent group that included Senators Norris, Frazier, Shipstead and Johnson.

Senator Norbeck was born August 27, 1870, in Clay county, South Dakota, the son of an immigrant Norwegian-Lutheran minister. At 25 he left home, penniless, and went into the well drilling business with a partner. The business progressed, and Norbeck & Company became an important firm in its field.

It was through his drilling operations that he became acquainted with people in all parts of the state, a factor that was later to become of considerable advantage when he entered a political career.

In the United States senate the South Dakotian was an outspoken champion of agricultural relief measures. One of his bills, which failed of passage, would have reimbursed farmers for losses suffered as a result of government price-fixing during the World War.

With Senator Norbeck when he died today were his son, Harold, a broker and George Norbeck, the senator's secretary. Mrs. Norbeck was attending church at the time.

The senator's death brought predictions that Governor Tom Berry, Democrat, who will retire from office January 6, would resign before that date and be appointed to fill Senator Norbeck's unexpired term, which still has two years to run.

Governor Berry said tonight he had not decided whether to take over tomorrow of lieutenant Governor Robert Peterson, charged with emergency in connection with an alleged $175,000 bribe scandal in the First National Bank of Minneapolis, of which he was president.

If Peterson resigns as a result of his banking difficulties, Berry could appoint his successor. Berry could resign and the new lieutenant governor could name Berry senator.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday. The body will lie in state in a funeral home at 2200 Broadway, from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m. with services at Our Saviour's Lutheran church at 3:30 p. m. burial will be at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Oak Hill cemetery, seven miles southeast of Platte, the senator's former home.

Surviving besides the widow and son, Harold, are three daughters.

INSANITY THREATENING SCOTTSBORO NEGROES, LEIBOWITZ DECLARES

Defense Asks Graves To Aid in Obtaining Change of Venue.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(UP)—Samuel Leibowitz, former defense attorney in the Scottsboro case, said tonight that the nine negroes were "in serious danger of going stark, mad" unless they were "sooner liberated from their inhuman confinement."

"To drive them to insanity would be even more horrible than to burn them in Alabama's electric chair," Leibowitz said.

The youths have been in jail for five and one-half years. Eight of the Scottsboro defense committee charged that for the last nine months they have been held in "almost solitary confinement" and are "suffering in a way they can no longer endure mentally or physically."

"We have done everything possible to interest the reputable members of the bar of Decatur, Ala., to assist in the defense of the Scottsboro boys," Leibowitz said. "While some of those solicited agreed privately, of course, that the Scottsboro boys were innocent, none would dare to represent them in court. The excuse offered was that a lawyer could not afford to get mixed up with the case and still practice law in Decatur."

The Scottsboro defense committee through its chairman, the Rev. Dr. Allan Knight Chalmers, made public the letter it sent to Governor Bibb Graves, of Alabama. The letter asked that the Governor aid in obtaining a change of venue and said:

"Intentionally or otherwise, the confinement to which the boys have been subjected for the last nine months, can have but one result: To break them down physically and mentally so that in desperation they may make a false confession. It is well known that such confinement is often as effective as a 'third degree'."

58 MILLION 'DEPOSIT' SWELLS DENVER MINT

DENVER, Dec. 20.—(AP)—New gold and silver worth $58,000,000 poured into the newly-gilded Denver mint this year, setting an all-time record.

The inflow boosted the board at the mint to between five and seven billion dollars, it was understood, although the amount was not disclosed today in the annual report of Superintendent Mark Skinner.

The business record was $52,909,239 in 1935.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE. Arlen Leake, 31, leaves her husband, Ed, home after her father's marriage to a pretty gold-digger only three years her senior. What income Arlen must be knowing her stepmother Karen is spending the money of her father's inheritance from her father's estate. Arlen drives to Ocean City to "cool off." There she meets tall, handsome Henry Maynard, a lawyer. She is pleased at his frank almost brotherly manner but it irritates her confidence. When she tells of her father's foolish marriage he suggests writing to his sister Louise, wife of Richard Brandon, who is always getting her engagements and accounts muddled. Louise replies enthusiastically, saying she will pay Arlen $50 a week as her secretary. "Tell Miss Leake about Toby Stanner," Henry reads to Arlen from Louise's letter. "I think she'll like him. Christa says flat. At the Brandon penthouse in New York, Arlen meets Toby, her fiancé, and his wealthy, much made-up mother Fanny, and Elissa Brank. From Elissa Arlen learns that Christa, now in Paris, is Henry's wife. They have a little daughter, Allison. Arlen takes up stenography and Elissa leaves her rich aunt and uncle, gets a $5 room, goes to the school, too, and gets a part-time job at $15 a week. Toby proposes to Arlen, she says she likes him but doesn't love him, but Fanny worries. Fanny knows she is hopelessly in love with Henry. Christa writes a letter to Henry, telling him about Arlen. The day that Jake McLean, young playwright, proposes to her in Paris.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XIV. Nancy Starr got up stiffly. "You're running around in circles, Christa. You don't know what you want. You've left Henry and what have you done—fallen in love with a boy enough like him to be his twin? Jake McLean is Renny five years ago!" Christa shrugged wearily. "You'd feel smug with pleasure, Nancy. Renny wouldn't take me back, would he? But he will." She got out of bed, put on slippers and a negligee, and said, "Don't be so tiresome and frigid. I never asked you to solve my love affairs. Just because you haven't been fortunate to have one man to manage is not saying I can't manage two."

Nancy's retort was a decisive slamming of the bedroom door. Christa sat before her cluttered dressing table and with one angry sweep pushed everything to one corner. Oh, it was messy, messy! The sight of the room, the breakfast tray, the unmade bed, the scattered clothes and ash trays—it was all sickening. She thought she would read Henry's letter again but dismissed the thought. Fanny's malicious lies! And Elissa, her dear friend, who knew all about this girl Renny had "picked up" at a seashore resort, had not mentioned it in her letter. Friends!

There was no one to whom she had explained why she left Renny. There was no one she respected more, more than the thought of his loving another woman was as if cold hands were laid upon her. The underlying reason for all her actions and her attitude of superiority was the deep inferiority complex of a girl raised on borrowed luxury and groomed to make a marriage for money. Christa did not understand the contradictions in herself. When she was being admired, she liked herself tremendously. This morning in this dusty, disorderly room, with the one part of her life that had been a harbor for her, her one link with security being shattered by an unknown girl named Arlen Leake, Christa Maynard liked herself not at all.

She had married Renny because his adoration made her proud, and because her socially ambitious mother's hands had shaped her into being Henry Maynard's wife. As Mrs. Maynard, she had had power and means. Christa was a dazzled girl, with a nose fastidiously upon her too soon and fine for her understanding. With the freedom that Renny gave to all things that belonged to him, and with the luxuries he showered on her, her world had broadened far beyond her belief, and after seven years in a country house having borne a child toward whom she felt nothing but cool detachment, Christa had lifted her arrogant dark head to peer into more glamorous horizons.

She comforted herself by thinking that it was because she knew she could not make Renny happy, that intellectually and spiritually he was far above her, she had left him. But that was only a comforting subterfuge to hide her natural fickleness. Nancy had often flung at her, "You want Renny's love, his security, and his money, but you need a dozen men to feed your vanity."

The Irishman Jake McLean was 25, handsome, and occurred to her at his sophisticated comedies failed to impress London producers. He was poor but he accepted everywhere. He was four years younger than Christa. She did not want to yield to loving Jake McLean, who had mistaken her lack of spontaneity, her selfishness and her strange eyes for amiable sophistication. Christa did not want to love any one because in love a woman has to give, and after eight years of marriage with Henry she had given nothing except the unwilling bearing of a child.

Like a princess in exile, she wanted only admiration. Now and then, as this morning, her thought of him that she was 29 years old, that she had left love and heartbreak in the path of self-gratification, and that in time Henry would replace her in the exclusive little circle which a year ago had revolved with open arms. She shuddered at the thought, finding consolation in Jake's love and constancy.

It was a puzzled uncertain face she saw in the mirror. "I'll divorce Renny," she thought, and seeing the boldness was immediately tempered by the thought of small alimony and no alimony at all if she married Jake. "Go back," she thought, "to slumping as I did before I was married!" Christa cherished her name and the respected place in the world that being Renny's wife gave her. "Oh, if only," she thought, "I could go on living as I'm living now, and being as young and good looking as I am now, with Jake looking at me and seeing me as perfect as Renny once thought me."

She shuddered as she thought of what the passage of time meant. Her world would be leaning on her elbows, looking desperately at herself in the mirror. The maid spoke quietly, knowing that the look of rebellion in her mistress' eyes might be unpleasant by the sudden angry blurring of a glass or an ash tray to the floor.

"Mr. McLean is here, Madame."

"Tell him," said Christa irritably. "Tell him anything."

She bathed and dressed with efficiency. Her dislike of herself and her fear for the future were considerably lessened when she gave the last look into the mirror before going into the sitting room to meet Jake. Careful grooming, a businesslike application of make-up, and the dark green dress with which she wore a short black cape around her shoulders and flung a challenge at Jake.

Jake was sitting at the piano. She went up to him and put her arms around his neck. He took her hands from the keys, took her hands, and kissed them.

"I'm sorry to be late, Nancy stopped in."

She went over and sat on the divan. "You look worried," he said.

She nodded. "Letters from home."

Jake leaned on the piano and looked at her soberly.

"Divorce is ugly, Christa. It's particularly ugly when there's a child to consider. Children of divorce begin life with an inferiority complex and a big question mark in their minds about love. It distorts things for them at the outset. You can't go on living like this. You can't expect your husband to keep you in this elegant style of living indefinitely."

"I've been reminded of all that before."

He was amazed at the authority he was taking. "Have I asked you to marry me, Christa? If I haven't, I'm asking you now."

"So bluntly, Jake?"

"I think most proposals are blunt, my dear. You don't have to make up your mind today." He smiled boyishly at her. "I suppose I asked you because I wanted the right to say something about—about your child. If, after you're settled your affairs with your husband, you'd like to take a chance with me, a chance that I'll be famous and make money, there's one thing I insist upon, Christa. Am I taking too much for granted to insist at this state of things?"

"No. Please go on, Jake."

"I insist, Christa," Jake McLean repeated, "that your little girl be given either wholly to you or her father, and that there be no six months with you and six months with him. I expect to make my home either here in Paris or in London. You wouldn't want to subject your daughter to an ocean voyage twice a year."

He struck a chord on the piano.

"I've known you for a year and I've been in love with you for a year. And I've asked a woman who is already married to a man, who must be pretty decent to marry me. And I've asked a woman to lunch to pay for my lunch. He looked up. "Christa, what is your answer?"

"I didn't make Renny happy, Jake."

He smiled again. "We could try. But what I wonder about is if I can make you happy."

She got up and stood over the piano.

"Jake, do you know how old I am? This morning, if I can, I'd like to get one thing straight."

"I know you will never be older or less lovely than you are at this minute." He took her in his arms and kissed her. "I've kissed you only once before," he said. "I don't like to kiss another man's wife."

When they came out to the street, he signaled a cab, but Christa waved it away. "No. Let's walk." She put her arm through his and set her eyes ahead.

"I'm going home, Jake," she said as they walked.

"You're making me happy, my dear."

The morning of indecision and even his blunt proposal had brought her no nearer to a solution. If only Jake had money! Then the path would be clear. She would return home, have a dignified talk with Renny, establish a Reno residence, and remain unmarried only as long as it took the next boat to reach Cherbourg. But Jake had no money, and marriage with him meant living in small, musty rooms while he wrote plays producers would not buy.

"When are you going?" he asked.

"Oh, I don't know, Jake, let's not talk about it any more."

The fog was like an enveloping blanket this evening—the promised evening with Renny.

Arlen smoothed down the green velvet and raised her slim hips and looked at her shining eyes in the mirror. In the drawing room she could hear Renny's voice mingling with the voices of Louise and Richard.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

OLD YULETIDE CUSTOMS. 1—In Northern Lands. The greatest feast of the year is only a few days distant. Most persons seem cheerful, and almost all are planning to spend Christmas cheer. In certain countries of the Northland, the name "Yule" is used for Christmas Day, and in English-speaking countries "Yuletide" is often used for the Christmas season.

When we remember their short December days, it is little wonder that Norse folk should think much of the meaning of the change of seasons. They are joyful over the coming of days each one a little longer than the last.

Celebration of the Yuletide dates back to a time before the Norse countries turned to the Christian faith. After the Norse countries were converted, Christmas became the central day of their season of happy feasting. They still have many days of feasting, however, and in some of our old customs have been kept from the time when gods and goddesses were worshipped.

One old custom in certain parts of Sweden is "The Feast of Lights," and comes on December 13th, about a week before the shortest day of the year. A young woman in the household "dresses" a candle in white and dons a crown which consists of lighted candles. It is supposed this custom goes back to a time when people believed in a deity of light. Of course they do not believe in such a deity today, but they find it possible to make merry over an old custom, and the young woman offers bread or cakes and coffee to all in the house.

GOMEZ'S RESIGNATION IS HINTED IN HAVANA AS HE LEAVES PALACE

Supporters Admit Opponents Strong Enough To Force 'Ouster.'

HAVANA, Dec. 20.—(UP)—President Miguel Mariano Gomez, whose supporters admit there are enough votes in the national chamber of representatives to impeach him, is moving his family's belongings from the palace, it was learned tonight.

The family's personal effects are being taken to the Gomez private home, indicating that the President may have decided to resign or to believe that his removal by impeachment is inevitable.

Citizens of Havana were remarkably apathetic today as the showdown on Gomez' administration neared. The temper of the people was in marked contrast to yesterday when there were angry demonstrations in the streets. Four of Gomez' supporters in the national chamber admitted, after a conference with the President, that his political opponents have enough strength to force his impeachment.

Gomez was reported preparing his veto message on a sugar tax bill designed to provide $1,500,000 for military education in Cuba. The bill, sponsored by Cuba's "strong man," Colonel Fulgencio Batista, army chief of staff, brought an open break with Gomez.

The veto message, palace officials said, will be sent to the congress tomorrow. Two national Democratic congressmen told the United Press that if the President vetoes the bill a special impeachment session will be delayed until Tuesday, at least.

If Gomez refuses to resign after the bill is passed over his veto the impeachment forces will act immediately, it was said.

2 ARE FEARED DEAD IN N. Y. TRAIN CRASH

LITTLE YORK, N. Y., Dec. 20.—(AP)—Two trainmen were trapped in the wreckage of a Delaware, Lackawanna & Western freight train tonight after a southbound freight rammed a switching locomotive just north of Little York station.

The men, whom railroad men said they feared were dead, were identified as William McComb, of Syracuse, head brakeman of the southbound freight, and Cliff Moore, of Binghamton, fireman on the same train.

Claude Eggleston, of Binghamton, engineer of the train, was reported in serious condition.

FOUR ARE CONVICTED IN 'GIFT OF GOD' CASE

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Four principal actors in the bizarre "Gift of God" baby drama were convicted of mail fraud by a federal jury early today, ending the fifth trial in 14 months directly or indirectly connected with the birth of a boy August 17, 1935.

The four—Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench, 44; her physician husband, Dr. Ludwig O. Muench; Mrs. Helen Berroyer and Wilfred Jones, an attorney—were charged with use of the mails in an attempt to obtain money from Dr. Marsh Pittman, wealthy physician, by falsely representing to him he was the father of a baby son Mrs. Muench claimed as her own.

The St. Louis court of appeals a year ago ruled the child belonged to Anna Ware, unwed servant girl. Judge George Moore set December 20 for hearing new trial motions and if denied, imposing the sentence. Pending final action the four remained at liberty under bonds of $5,000.

PERMANENT INSTITUTE ON AMERICAN AFFAIRS VOTED AT CONFERENCE

Committee Approves Its Establishment in Republic of Panama.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 20.—(AP)—The peace organization committee cleared its calendar today of the last projects to be considered by the Inter-American Peace conference.

The committee unanimously adopted a resolution submitted by Edmeo Manigot, delegate from Haiti, recommending the establishment of a Pan-American Institute in the Republic of Panama as a center for friendly meetings, artistic and cultural exhibitions to foster better understanding among the American peoples.

Consideration of proposed treaties for codification of "unification" projects was deferred until a scheduled meeting of juridical experts in Washington next April. Postponement was voted after Adolf A. Berle Jr., of the United States, advocated deeper study.

A Mexican peace code proposal also was held over until the Washington meeting.

The committee agreed three instruments ratified by the conference—maintenance of peace, non-intervention and neutrality—could not be open to adherence by nations outside the western world.

United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull said he was gratified by the success of United States proposals to co-ordinate existing peace pacts for neutrality, promotion of cultural understandings and liberalized trade agreements.

"Our meeting," he said, "has been an illustration of what great accomplishments are attainable when 21 good neighbors, all animated by mutual understanding and real friendship, sit together around a conference table."

ST. CLAIR ADVOCATES SAFETY LAW REFORMS

Maximum Speed of 50 M. P. H. Urged; September Fatalities Drop.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Taking stock of attempts to reduce highway deaths, Albert St. Clair, director of the accident prevention conference, expressed belief today that only radical revision of present safety methods will cut the toll substantially.

He criticized some features of the campaigns which blame the driver exclusively for the 37,000 annual motor car killings in the United States, asserting in a statement that most national accident prevention campaigns "ignore many major causes of the ghastly situation."

Heading the list of recommendations he has made to the conference was the proposal "that maximum speeds be definitely reduced to 50 miles an hour, by governors or other mechanical devices, if necessary."

A reduction in one classification of accidents meanwhile, was reported by another agency. The safety section of the Association of American Railroads reported fewer persons were killed in highway-railroad grade crossing accidents in September than in any month since last March.

The September fatalities totaled 113, five less than the preceding month and 31 less than September, 1935. Fatalities in March this year totaled 102.

OPPORTUNITIES DRIVE STILL SHORT OF GOAL

lies selected as this year's opportunities have been told, one daily until the facts about each of the 10 have appeared. No. 10, the last of the list, was told here yesterday.

Some have been provided for by the generous individuals or groups who have gladly assumed responsibility for their small needs for the year to come. Others will be taken care of from the general fund, built up by the checks and money sent in by so many of you. But there remain four with prayers as yet unanswered.

For them we depend on individuals and groups who have not yet spoken, and upon the dollars and the tens and the hundreds that you are yet to send in.

Make your checks payable to Hugh H. Trotter, treasurer, Ten Opportunities Fund, care of The Constitution. There are four days left. The final answer must be known by Christmas Eve. We must tell these dependent ones, before Christmas morning, whether or not Atlanta has responded to their despairing call.

The 10 families, you know, have been selected, after careful study, from scores of poor families in Atlanta. In nearly every case the family chosen consists of a widow and her children, their protector and provider taken away by death.

We want to provide, for each of the 10, that sum, each month, which represents the difference between what they can get by their own efforts and the barest minimum for the essentials of decent life. Good food, warm clothes, shelter and a modicum of comfort.

By this means we want to give these little children a fair chance to become good citizens. We want to keep them in their own little homes under the loving care of their own mothers, rather than see them consigned to some institution or cast, helpless, into the cruel fortune of the streets.

We want, too, to ease the heavy-burdened mother hearts who now suffer in silence as they see their little broods go often unfed to bed, as they see no decent beds, in some instances, for them to rest on and as they fear, with a terrible, breaking fear, what may become of their children in the future, if kind fortune does not aid.

What Can You Spare? Won't you help? Haven't fate and fortune and luck and God been good enough to you, this past year, that you can spare a little for these who have struggled so hard against a bitter fate?

We know you will. Send in your contributions and they will be acknowledged here in any way you direct, under your proper name, your initials or, if you prefer, the anonymity of "A Friend."

Tomorrow, we hope, there'll be a grand report to be made of your response. Contributions, to date, follow:

Desultory Bidding on Huge Tuna Moves to $75 on Johnson's Raise

Price Offered for 800-Pound Denizen of Deep Still Far Short of Market Value; Proceeds Will Be Used To Aid Opportunities.

Raising the ante on the price of tuna and forcefully expressing a determination to own the prize Constitution tuna fish by jumping the bid $10 last night, Nick Johnson, of the Ship Ahoy cafe, has brought the bid to $75.

This brings the price, however, to only 10.8 cents a pound, a disappointingly low figure since the market price is set at 25 cents a pound, or $200 for the entire 800 pounds.

Johnson retaliated with a jump bid after his own figure of $60 was raised by Cecil Cannon, of the Henry Grady hotel, who bid $65 late Saturday.

The auction, conducted through these columns to raise a fund for the Ten Opportunity families, the finest of all Christmas charities, was made possible through the generosity of General Lindley Camp, who gave the 800-pound sea denizen to The Constitution to aid the yuletide campaign.

It was sent to him by a sporting friend. And while the slow bidding continues, the fish is reposing in cold storage and the auctioneer is stubborn in his announcement that he positively will not sell a fish that should be worth $200 for $65, may even $75.

But there is still time. The bidding should rise fast during the next 24 hours.

So, with $75 as a base bid and mindful of the fact that the sum raised through the auction is to go for the aid of one of the Ten Opportunity families during the next year, who will ring the bell at $100?

The expected bid from Commodore Virgil P. Warren, a Florida friend, who wired in a "dare bid" to Al Belle to lead through these columns, should be in any minute, and the sum is likely to be in three figures.

The prize tuna is still going-going.

FRENCH FLYER SHOT WHILE IN MID-AIR

Wounded Flyer Makes a Forced Landing; Woman Flees in Plane.

VERSAILLES, France, Dec. 20.—(AP)—A woman who, Pilot Pierre L'Allement asserted, shot him in the back as they flew together 1,300 feet in the air, and then fled in their plane after he brought it safely to earth, was sought tonight throughout France.

Eight hours after L'Allement said his companion, Madame Anne Schmeder, 32, took the air after he was wounded in a farmer's field near here, nothing had been heard of her.

Police said L'Allement told them

Madame Schmeder took off with him in their jointly-owned airplane shortly after noon from Villacoublay.

They had been in the air but a few minutes, police quoted him as saying, when Madame Schmeder in the rear seat drew a small revolver and shot him.

The pilot said he made an emergency landing and crawled out of the plane, whereupon his companion climbed into the pilot's cockpit and flew away.

BUTLER WARNS U. S. AGAINST IMPROPER USE OF TAXATION POWERS

Government Must Not Dry Up Revenues of Public Institutions, He Says.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(AP)—A warning against any improper use of the government's power of taxation was sounded tonight by President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University, who said:

"The most subtle type of revolution which confronts American democracy today is that which is easily and silently possible through taxation. It is Dr. Butler, in his annual report to the trustees, declared all money given or bequeathed to institutions of public service should be exempt from taxation. Such institutions, he said, are established and maintained by the benefactions of individual citizens.

"If, therefore, government undertakes, in the exercise of its duly granted powers, to adopt and to enforce a scheme of taxation which makes these benefactions for the public service in the field of liberty impossible, then government is attacking the public interest and the public service at their very foundation.

"Neither Communism nor Fascism could do more."

Unless public opinion is focused on the subject, he said, "the American people may one day wake up to find that their most respected, most beloved and most successful institutions of public service have been either crippled or destroyed, and that they must look to the halting, imperfect and often incompetent hand of government to undertake in wretched fashion the tasks which were once being dealt with so well."

COMMITTEE TO AIR TAX CLAIMS TODAY

Biltmore, Erlanger Cases Slated for Consideration by Group.

Proceeding the last meeting of city council in 1936, a special hearing on city tax claims against the Biltmore hotel and the Erlanger theater will be held by the tax committee today. The tax committee will meet at 1 o'clock, an hour before council convenes.

Claims of approximately $184,000 will be aired by the council group. The Biltmore hotel owes $150,000 and the theater $34,000 in back taxes, the city claims.

Final meeting of the 1936 council will be held January 4, preceding the organizational meeting of the new council, reduced to 18 members. Mayor-elect Hartsfield will be inaugurated at the same meeting, to succeed the veteran Mayor Key.

VICTIM IDENTIFIED

L. M. Ward Killed Saturday in Rail Mishap.

The body of a man who was fatal, injured Saturday when struck by a freight train after his foot became caught in a switch, was identified yesterday as that of L. M. Ward, 36, of Carey Park.

Following a coroner's inquest yesterday, a verdict was returned attributing Ward's death to an accident. Both of his legs were severed. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. R. J. Ward; one brother, R. A. Ward, and a sister, Mrs. Julia Rine. Funeral plans will be announced later by the West Side Funeral Home.

SLUSH FUND FOR LUPO REVEALED BY GEOGHAN

Cummings Warned of Move to 'Spring' Racketeer From Pen Here.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan, of Kings county, New York, has wired Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, warning him of an alleged slush fund to "spring" a Brooklyn racketeer, "Lupo the Wolf," out of Atlanta penitentiary, it was learned here late today.

The racketeer's real name is Ignazio Lupo, but he is known to the underworld and the public as "Lupo the Wolf." Recently he was mixed up in an attempt to force Brooklyn bakery owner to join a protective organization or suffer the consequences. When brought into court the racket case fell through because of the fear of prosecution witnesses that they would suffer retaliation from the Lupo mob. However, President Roosevelt sent Lupo back to Atlanta to finish out his counterfeiting term.

Discovering the existence of a habes corpus proceedings in Atlanta, Geoghan telegraphed Cummings: "An informed source has applied for Ignazio Lupo, known as 'Lupo the Wolf,' recommended to prison on President's warrant at my request, is pending in Atlanta. Although I realize case will have your close attention, believe it best to advise you that I am informed large defense fund has been raised in Lupo's behalf, which presages long legal contest. Take the liberty of suggesting also that deportation warrant be filed against Lupo. Last entry into United States was in 1925 and believe that prior conviction of counterfeiting warrants deportation in any event."

Signed, William F. X. Geoghan, district attorney, Kings county. In 1910 Lupo was sentenced to 30 years on Atlanta for making counterfeiting money. He applied to former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty for a conditional parole and the late President Warren G. Harding signed the necessary papers, freeing Lupo.

According to the police, he lost no time in joining with other racketeers, but was arrested last June with his son, Rocco, and a third man for bakery racketeering. Witnesses failed to appear against Lupo and his son and the third man fled to Italy, later serving for Mussolini in the Ethiopian campaign.

In view of Lupo's past record, District Attorney Geoghan became convinced he was again flitting with trouble so he requested the President to cancel the parole and return the defendant to the federal penitentiary.

HABES CORPUS HEARING CONTINUED INDEFINITELY

"Lupo the Wolf," who entered the Atlanta penitentiary early this year after 16 years' absence on parole, won further delay with the law Wednesday, when his habes corpus hearing was continued until an unannounced date after the Christmas holidays by Federal District Judge E. Marvin Underwood.

"Lupo's" habes corpus plea is based on his contention he was imprisoned illegally.

BANDIT VICTIM CLAIMS COAT WORN BY COLTON

An overcoat worn by R. L. Colton, one of five bandit suspects captured a week ago Saturday by police, was identified last night, police reported, by J. F. Johnson, of 1714 Cascade avenue, as an overcoat taken from him by two bandits on November 13.

Johnson told police the holiday occurred at Gordon and Holderness streets, and that he was robbed of the overcoat and $28 in cash. He failed to identify Colton as one of the bandits.

8,200 MEN ARE READY TO SEARCH FOR PLANE

Strange Radio Signals Fade Into Silence as Pilots Continue Hunt.

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 20.—(AP)—The search for the lost airplane of the west rose to spectacular proportions today with more than 8,200 men available but the strange radio signals, which stirred hope of finding alive the nine missing persons, faded into silence.

Tonight, with hope for safety of the air travelers having faded with the radio signals, the Western Air Express Company offered a $1,000 reward for discovery of its airliner, missing since Tuesday with five men and two women.

Allan Barrie, Western Air's youthful vice president, said the reward would remain effective until noon, January 4.

Radio operators of Utah, southeastern Nevada and northern Arizona kept a fruitless vigil for a repetition of the faint, indistinct call—"Is Salt Lake City or St. George there?"—which floated over the air yesterday.

"Officials have practically given up on the radio theory," said George Keyser, Jr., traffic agent for Western Air Express. "It must have been some amateur."

However, the officials said a radio direction finder had been set up near St. George in an effort to trace the mysterious calls should they occur again.

Brigadier General Walter C. Sweet, commander of Fort Douglas, near Salt Lake City, placed 7,000 CCC enrollees and 1,200 regular army men at the disposal of airline officials.

Only a comparative few were called out, however. They will be used in a mass ground search if favorable leads develop.

Northwest Airlines officials, directing an aerial hunt along the Washington-Idaho border for a missing mail transport, likewise discarded a mysterious message as a clue to the fate of Pilots Joe Livermore and A. A. Heid. This ship vanished early Friday.

Although the northwest search was centered near Elk river, Idaho, 15 planes circled over much of northwestern Idaho and east central Washington.

One after clue faded in the prolonged search in Utah and Nevada for the big Western Air transport and the five men and two women aboard.

A report from C. B. Phillips, of Warm Springs, Nev., that he saw a "large blaze" in the mountains to the west of Mormon peak on the Western Air Express route, sent automobile parties into the southwest corner of Nevada tonight. Pilots on planes traveling the Los Angeles-Salt Lake City route also were ordered to survey the region closely.

Nineteen planes combed mountains, valleys and desert between Milford, Utah, 180 miles southwest of here, where Pilot S. J. Samson radioed an "O. K." signal before dawn last Tuesday, and Salt Lake airport.

Hundreds hiked through virtually every canyon in the lower reaches of the Wasatch and Lake mountains in Utah country, south of Salt Lake city.

Dudley M. Steele, of Los Angeles, an experienced "rescue flyer," said he believed the plane piloted by his golfing pal, Samson, would be found not far off its regular course.

Union Pacific railroad officials said C. B. Phillips, of Warm Springs, Nev., reported seeing a "large blaze" high in the mountains near Warm Springs.

U. S. PROBES EFFECT OF NEW LABOR ACT

Government Supply Costs Reported Increased Due to Walsh-Healy Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Treasury and Labor Department officials said today they were making a study to determine whether government supply costs have been increased by the Walsh-Healy act.

Enacted in the last congress, the act requires a 40-hour week and other labor standards in the production of goods sold to the government on contracts of $10,000 or more.

It has been argued in some quarters the law would raise the cost of government supplies materially. Officials said the survey is to determine whether this has been true.

Any such survey, it was said, can provide only rough comparisons of prices before and after enactment of the act, because many other factors enter into supply costs.

Recent refusal of some industries to bid on government contracts has given rise to reports of a "strike" against the Walsh-Healy act.

In government circles, there existed divergent views over the absence of contract bidding. High naval officials were inclined to blame the Walsh-Healy law requirements. On the other hand, Secretary Perkins attributed the failure to receive the usual number of bids to increased demands of private industry for steel.

Recently, the navy was unable to get bids on 2,500,000 pounds of copper.

NEWTON A. JOHNSON PASSES IN HOSPITAL

Newton Anderson Johnson, 62, resident of Atlanta more than 30 years and connected with the Georgia Power Company for that period, died yesterday in a private hospital. He resided in Kirkwood on Clay street.

Mr. Johnson was widely known in civic and church circles in Kirkwood and was a member of the Kirkwood Baptist church, in which he served most actively in the Men's Bible class.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Claudia M. Johnson; one daughter, Mrs. E. S. Preston; a son, N. H. Johnson; one son, Mrs. Annie Maude Epps; two brothers, Bonham L. Johnson, of Ovington, and James S. Johnson, and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Spring Hill chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son, with Dr. K. O. White officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Mr. Helmer had been visiting in Miami several months. Surviving are his wife; two daughters, Miss Mary Helmer and Mrs. John C. Brown, the latter of Grand Rapids, Mich.; and three sisters, Mrs. Lillian Davidson, Mrs. Emma Brown and Mrs. Anna Walker.

UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

RULINGS TODAY LIKELY ON 5 NEW DEAL LAWS

Neutrality, Silver Tax and Prison Goods Act Before High Court.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Action on disputes involving five New Deal laws may be forthcoming tomorrow from the supreme court.

Final decisions may be announced on three controversies and word given as to whether two others will be reviewed.

Awaiting a final ruling are cases involving a presidential embargo on sale of munitions for Bolivia and Paraguay to use in their recent Chaco war, the government contending its neutrality legislation is involved; constitutionality of the Ashurst-Sumners act requiring labeling of prison-made goods and forbidding their transportation into states that bar their sale, and validity of a 50 per cent tax on profits made by silver traders before passage of the 1934 silver purchase act, intended to increase the amount of that metal in the nation's monetary base.

The court was expected to announce tomorrow whether it would review two appeals from lower courts involving constitutionality of the Frazier-Lea farm mortgage moratorium act and the 1936 law broadening federal regulation of commodity exchanges.

Another pending petition was for reconsideration of the recent four-to-four decision upholding the New York unemployment insurance act.

After handing down opinions to-morrow, the court will adjourn for two weeks.

JERSEY RIVER RISES.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Dec. 20.—(AP)—The usually placid Raritan river spread over a mile-wide stretch of lowlands today, flooded many cellars, forced the closing of bridges and trapped a man in a tree for 12 hours.

Described as the highest in at least 12 years, the river left its banks over a 20-mile stretch.

Little Helene Ramsey Christened In Exquisite 67-Year-Old Dress

By Sally Forth.

IN THE years to come, when adorable little Helene Elizabeth Ramsey is preparing to make her entry on the stage of social events, her parents, Robert and Peggy Fuller Ramsey, will tell her that one December Sunday in 1936 was the date upon which a very auspicious event took place. It was on Sunday that Helene Elizabeth was christened at an impressive ceremony at St. Luke's Episcopal church, Rev. John Moore Walker, the rector, performed the ceremony in the presence of a limited number of friends of the lovely little six-week-old baby and her parents.

The child wore an exquisite dress which is featured by an interesting bit of sentiment in that it was worn 67 years ago by Mrs. Ramsey's maternal aunt, Mrs. Charles Hollingsworth, when, as Amina Latimer, she was christened at the Church of the Advent in Nashville, Tenn. The notable and late Bishop Quintard officiated at the Nashville service. Helene Elizabeth marks the fourth generation of her family to be a member of St. Luke's church and it is also interesting to know that her great-grandfather, Joseph Henry Latimer and Bishop Quintard are friends.

Camp Fire Girls And Their Leaders Honored Tomorrow

Back to the 67-year-old dress the baby wore Sunday. Fashioned of exquisite batiste it is over two yards long and is featured by exquisite eyelet embroidery and row after row of tiny tucks. The short puff sleeves and the empire waist with square neck was very becoming to the very youthful loveliness of Helene Elizabeth, who at even the tender age of six weeks wore two corsages. Mrs. Ed Medlock and Mrs. Harry Lange were the godmothers and Norman Ramsey and Dr. Harry Lange were the godfathers.

As has been mentioned before, the baby's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ramsey, the latter being before her marriage, Peggy Fuller, one of Atlanta's loveliest belles. Mr. and Mrs. William A. Fuller are the baby's maternal grandparents and her paternal grandparents are Mrs. Julia Little Ramsey and the late Judge Norman Ramsey, of Louisville, Ga., and all represent families who have long been prominent in the annals of the state.

SALLY's attention was called recently to a lovely likeness appearing in a San Francisco daily newspaper of Mrs. Rufus G. Thayer, the former Anna Harriet Shewmake, of this city. Mrs. Thayer is pictured with a group of other attractive "socialites," so stated by the caption over the cut.

Accompanying Mrs. Thayer's photograph is the comment that she is the popular wife of Lieutenant Thayer, who is stationed on the U. S. S. West Virginia. The comment stated that several farewell parties are being given in compliment to Mrs. Thayer before her departure from San Francisco for Long Beach, Cal., with her young sons, Gerard and Donovan, where they will reside during Lieutenant Thayer's detail at that port.

Mrs. Thayer is the daughter of Claude Shewmake and only sister of Miss Elizabeth Shewmake, of this city. Several years have passed since her marriage to Lieutenant Thayer. However, Atlanta friends count it their good fortune to renew their friendship with the former Miss Shewmake each year when she comes for an annual visit with her family here.

Terrell-Gilbert Wedding Plans Are of Interest

Cordial social interest centers in the approaching marriage of Miss Sarah Katharine Terrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Roswell Terrell, to Lacy Carlton Gilbert Jr., of Decatur, which will take place on Thursday, December 31, at 5 o'clock at the Decatur Presbyterian church. The ceremony will be performed by Dr. D. P. McGeeby, pastor, and C. W. Diekmann will render a program of musical selections.

The ushers will include Glenn Fisher, Thomas Leake, Roscoe Knox and Edwin Anderson. Miss Sarah Glenn, of Chester, S. C., cousin of the bride-elect, will serve as maid of honor and Miss Anne Terrell, young sister of the bride-elect, will be junior maid. Miss Terrell has chosen Miss Mary Gilbert, Elizabeth Thomson, Doris Everitt and Helen Barnes for her bridesmaids.

The bride-elect will be given in marriage by her father, Edward Roswell Terrell, and Carol Thomas will serve as best man for Mr. Gilbert.

Following the marriage the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Terrell, will entertain at an informal reception, the guests to include the bridal party, relatives and close friends.

Mr., Mrs. Baxter Maddox Honor Miss Maddox and Miss Bailey

Listed among brilliant holiday affairs marking the week-end social calendar was the breakfast given yesterday morning at Brookhaven, the Capital City Country Club, by Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Maddox honoring their daughters, Misses Laura Maddox and Beverly Bailey, popular members of the Debutante Club. Miss Bailey is the daughter of Mrs. Albert H. Bailey and is vice president of the club and Miss Maddox is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maddox.

Among attractive guests present were Misses Emily Alsop, of Noroton, Conn., and Eunice Holderness, of St. Louis, Mo., the guests of Miss Maddox, and Miss Virginia Phelan, of Boston, Mass., a guest of Miss Clara Haverly.

The beautiful ballroom of the club was decorated with quantities of palms and baskets of poinsettias and was offset with the holiday motif by the large Christmas tree brilliantly decorated and lighted. The buffet bar was attractively ornamented and the long buffet table was adorned with miniature fruit trees which added a colorful note placed amid bowls of poinsettias.

Mrs. Maddox received her guests wearing a becoming wool sport model of burgundy and blue with hat and other accessories to match, and her flowers were gardenias. Miss Maddox was lovely in a model fashioned with long red tunic and a black skirt and her hat and other accessories were of black. She wore a cluster of orchids on her shoulder. Miss Bailey was an attractive figure in her model of rose-colored silken wool trimmed in black with hat and other accessories of black. Her flowers were orchids.

Miss Alsop was lovely in a black taffeta model offset with green polka dots and made with close-fitting basque waist and full skirt.

Miss Holderness was lovely in a model of black velvet and her hat and other accessories matched. Assisting the hosts in entertaining were their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Maddox, Mr. Albert H. Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Maddox Jr. and Mrs. Virginia Crenshaw.

Pan-American League.

The Pan-American League of Atlanta met recently. Topics discussed were the Pan-American peace conference now in session, and the approaching Pan-American student conference to be held the latter part of next March in Atlanta. Spanish music was rendered by members of the club. Wilmer Chandler and Edward Keen. Speakers were Colonel J. Elgin Speake, head of the history department at Tech High, Abel Samuels, of Mexico; Enrique Rosa, student of Peacock school; Carlos Real, of Chile, and Raymond Lilly, of Emory University.

TUBERCULOSIS

There is no one particular symptom of tuberculosis, especially in the early stages. A persistent cough that hangs on, frequent pains in the chest, steady loss of weight, a feeling of tiredness for no reason, and a daily rise in temperature are all danger signals. None of them, however, mean for sure a person has the disease.

Most new cases of tuberculosis are persons in their teens or young adults.

Boys and girls in the adolescent stage and young men and women who work too long and hard and eat too little nourishing food are apt to have less resistance to the germs of tuberculosis.

The best defense against this dreaded disease is a strong, healthy system. Get at least eight hours of sleep every night in a well-ventilated room. Spend some time each day out of doors. Eat a variety of nourishing foods and avoid overwork and late hours.

The Cause

Tuberculosis is caused by living germs that are either breathed into the body or carried into it. Milk from cows which have tuberculosis is a most dangerous carrier of the disease.

Milk, however, when pure is one of our best foods and a great defense-builder against tuberculosis.

To make sure milk is safe make sure it's Pasteurized.

Buy milk from one of the following dairies approved by the Pasteur League:

FitzSimons' Amazing Recovery Means He'll Play Saturday

The men with the black hats and the big feet have almost completely wiped out the organizations of collegiate hoboes which used to travel with the team.

They were a gay and daredevil outfit, sleeping under Pullman berths next to the steam pipes, hiding in odd corners and using an ingenuity which, if applied to constructive work, would have taken them far.

Swarms of them used to travel with the teams here and there. But they became so numerous as to be pests and coaches who discovered some of them bunked up with the team, helped eradicate them.

But for a while they were very good sources of news. Some of them always were getting put off trains at way stations or having to dig up enough money for a coach ticket.

But many of them got through. There was one boy who bummed to the coast with the Georgia Tech team, stayed at one of the finest hotels in Pasadena and who got back home with $4 after having left with $2.40. He was a genius.

Many of them bummed to New York and to Chicago and out to Texas.

I recall one collegiate hobo, a medical student, who bummed west with the Vanderbilt football team one year. He was put off the team car just after it passed the Mississippi. He rode roads in freezing weather and showed up in Dallas the night before the game. He ran into friends.

The next day found him celebrating with some old alumni groups. By game time they put him safely into bed and left him snoring. He woke up when they came back from the game and had just time enough to get ready to start the trip back.

But most of them lived in style, riding in Pullmans and eating in the diners and never paying a cent of fare.

IF YOU LOVE VANDERBILT.

One collegiate bummer was flushed by an irate conductor as a Vanderbilt team was coming out of Chicago. He was hurrying through the train but the conductor was very close behind him.

The panicky student hustled into a sleeping car and leaped into the first berth he saw.

He landed on the feet of an elderly lady who was reading a magazine. She retired early to read.

She was so horrified she lost the power to scream and stared at him with eyes which were on stems.

He adopted a prayerful posture with his hands clasped in front of him.

"Lady, lady," he said fervently, "if you love Vanderbilt let me stay here for a moment."

She was old and wise and so she asked for an explanation and the boy gave it. So she let him stay there until the angry conductor had gone by.

She had never heard of Vanderbilt but the boy's fervent plea won him escape. He has since become a well-known lawyer. And makes fervent and successful pleas to juries.

THE MEN WITH BLACK HATS.

They are all gone, as a tribe. Now and then some young man will make the trip, hiding under berths or seats until the conductor has made the check.

But the men with the black hats learned some years ago. They inspect each football train before it leaves the station, peering under berths with flashlights and otherwise making life miserable for the would-be bummer.

They were a flourishing tribe for some years. And the boy who hadn't ridden to some distant city with the team at the expense of the railroads was looked upon by his fellow students as lacking in something.

MAX SCHEMLING REMEMBERS.

Max Schmeling's memory isn't short.

The German boy, whom the fate of the ring has catapulted back into a fight for the championship, recently ordered flowers placed on the grave of the late W. L. Stribling at Macon.

He liked Stribling, as did everyone who knew him. And he was sorry for him that night he was beating him, though it meant the defense of his title.

I recall yet, that odd, appealing gesture toward the referee as Stribling stumbled helplessly away, his left hand out and drooping. And it was that gesture that decided the referee. He stopped the fight in that 15th and last round.

And now, after all these years, which are long as fighting years go, the German is back again, the favorite to become the first heavyweight champion ever to lose and regain the throne.

SUGAR TROUBLE.

Auburn's football team leaves this week for Cuba and the game with Villanova on January 1 in the Rhumba Bowl game.

It was with much pain I had to decline an invitation to accompany the Plainsmen to Havana. Because it is a grand place and a great little country to visit. And then there are some interesting politics down there.

The Auburn eleven is to play for the cup offered by President Miguel Mariano Gomez. But just now the army party is thinking about asking him to resign or be impeached. By the time the Plainsmen arrive they may be playing for some other cup. There is a sweet row on about the sugar tax.

I hope they can pull through the little political row all right. Because they are a great people with a lot of courage and tradition. And they have in the sports festival a program which will attract a lot of people.

They are to have athletic teams there from Columbia University, New York University, L. S. U., Auburn, Alabama, Miami University and squads from Mexico and Panama. Swimming, boxing, baseball, football, Kai Alai, track, tennis, polo and wrestling are some of the sports on the program.

L. S. U.'s Track Team Gray, Harper Win Licks Puerto Rico U. Amateur-Pro Meet

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Dec. 20. (AP)—Louisiana State University defeated the University of Puerto Rico, 78 to 72, in a track and field meet today, darkness ended the meet with one event uncontested. It was Puerto Rico's first meeting with another university and Louisiana's first experience off the mainland.

A crowd of more than 5,000 saw the visitors break four insular records, one by Salvador Torres, Puerto Rican student at L. S. U., who took the 440-yard hurdles in 56 seconds. Murphy set a new local record in the half-mile run, finishing in 1:50.00, and throw and Hamilton in the 1,500 meters.

A victory in the mile relay gave Louisiana the final decision after Puerto Rico had led at one time by 18 points.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 20. (AP)—Bob Gray, professional golfer from Windsor, Ontario, teamed with Bill Harper, of Miami, today to win an 18-hole amateur-pro tournament.

The winning best ball card was a 68, four under par, and a one-shot handicap gave the victors net score of 67.

Gray received a $500 cash prize. John Revolta, of Evanston, Ill., 1935 P. G. A. champion, and Everett Livsey, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., finished second with a 68, including two handicap strokes. Revolta collected $300.

Tony Manero, of Coral Gables, Fla., national open champion, shot a 74 but received no help from his partner, Bill Wallace, and finished in fifth place.

JUST LIKE GARBO, ROSE BOWL FOES ASK TO BE ALONE

Pitt, Huskies Settle to Hard Work; Latter Descend South.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 20. (AP)—Far from the rumbling uproar of pregame enthusiasm, Pittsburgh and Washington gridiron warriors settled down today to intensive preparation this week for their New Year's Day clash in the Rose Bowl.

Washington's Huskies, champions of the Pacific Coast Conference, descend on Santa Barbara tomorrow.

Coach Jack Sutherland brought his Pitt Panthers into San Bernardino's Arrowhead Springs yesterday.

Both teams want to be alone. This is why they chose training camps away from Pasadena and near-by Los Angeles, where inquisitive fans abound.

Dr. Sutherland, probably giving the local Chamber of Commerce a slight shudder, explained it this way:

"Train behind closed doors? Why certainly. That's why we selected San Bernardino for our training. We want to be alone."

Coach Jimmy Phelan, of the Huskies, took a similar slant as his team departed from Seattle. The squad will train for a week at Santa Barbara so they "can work in peace and quiet away from the crowds."

"We aren't going on a sight-seeing trip, you know," he added.

The Pitt mentor, keenly anxious to win this game, his fourth try at a Rose Bowl trophy, is confident his present team will offer strenuous opposition to the powerful Huskies.

SAME THING.

"I'm not going to predict a victory, but Washington will know they've been in a football game when it's all over."

Sutherland does not believe he has a wonder team, but thinks it is good. "This is a young team which has played and learned a lot of football this year," he said. "The boys have a fine attitude and are grimly determined to make good. I am not as hopeful as some of our sports writers, but I feel that we do have a strong outfit."

The Pitt squad looked ahead to two drills tomorrow.

WARREN ROUTS GROVE PARK, 64-0

The Warren Bulldogs trampled the Grove Park All-Stars at the Warren field Sunday afternoon, 64 to 0. Warren elected to receive and scored a touchdown in three plays. Bare went over for the marker and then the parade really got under way.

Newman, for Warren, played a great game. While scoring only one touchdown, his terrific blocking was directly responsible for all the scores made by his team. For Warren, Fair scored two touchdowns. Lade, Newman, one, Webb one, and Bash tallied five times.

The figures clearly show the marked superiority of the Warren eleven. Warren gained a total of 430 yards from the line of scrimmage while Grove Park had to take to the air to make their only two first downs.

Little Botsaris and Andrews were outstanding performers in the Warren forward wall. Thornton and the Raschbom brothers played best for Grove Park.

Warren still would like to go to Florida and show Florida fans how they can play football in a post-season game.

MAULDIN FACES ROSSI TONIGHT

Count Petro Rossi has asked for it and he may get it, but not the southern light he, cyborgist, has taken to declare John Mauldin, called Gentleman John, who again defends his crown in a super battle tonight at the Spring street arena.

Rossi and Mauldin battled to a bitter one-hour draw last week. The result did not exactly please the count, who was unable to land any underhooks because of the presence of Marshall Mauldin, Cracker out-fighter and brother of John. Marshall insisted on scoring. Rossi's rights before the match started. There were two falls. Each time Marshall made a thorough search of Rossi's tight.

The Italian count's hands were tied, so to speak. He had no chance to conceal any illegal weapons. On the strength of straight tactics he made a great showing, however.

And tonight he believes that he will enter the ring as an Italian count and leave it after Mauldin has taken the count, or something like that.

Mauldin thinks he will take the count, all right, meaning Count Rossi. For Gentleman John has not been very hard pressed since he won the title, except for his draw last week with Rossi. That sort of rattle him. The winner of tonight's match will be challenged by Turan Ben Jordan, who is coming here from Florida to fight the gauntlet in person. He'll be there in person—not a moving picture.

The other matches are very promising. Farmer Mack, the Canadian, grapples Don Jose, the fiery Mexican, in the semi-final.

While Doc Pool, the Texan, takes on Bad Boy Brown, the bewiskered gent, in the opener, which goes on at 8:30.

The Spring street arena is located at the junction of Spring, Peters and Garnett streets. Reserved seats may be obtained by calling Main 2339.

Eight Foursomes Play in Dogfite

Eight foursomes participated in the weekly dogfite tournament Sunday afternoon at East Lake. The winners foursome had a score of 122. They were: Cliff Ealey, George Fox, J. H. Peebles and J. B. Stewart.

Second at 120 were: J. A. Whitley, Jack Robertson, Dr. M. F. Fowler and S. W. Wade. George Sargent, Keith Conway, H. H. Arnold and S. M. Haw took third honors with a score of 124.

Tied for last honors with a score of 131 were: S. P. Murray, Dr. O. Linch, Dr. H. P. McDonald, W. L. Markert and Harold Sargent. Robert Ingram, J. B. Sisson and G. T. Freeman.

A Pair of California Guards Who Oppose Tech Saturday

California's Golden Bears, who will be favored over Georgia Tech at Grant field Saturday, will throw a flock of first-class guards at the Jackets, and two of them are shown above. At the left is Angelo Reginato (No. 62) and at the right James Stone (No. 47). The Bears are slated to arrive in Atlanta Thursday at noon.

Von Elm Wins California Tourney

GLENDALE, Cal., Dec. 20. (AP)—George Von Elm, of Hollywood, former national amateur champion, captured the $1,500 southern California open golf championship today when he finished the 72-hole tournament with a total of 279—nine under par.

The blond winner of the southern California open in 1925, when he was an amateur, collected $400 first prize money with a subpar card of 69-68-70-72 on the par 72 Oakland Country Club course.

Harry Bassler, Long Beach, Cal., pro, sprung the only major upset by nosing out Olin Dutra, of Los Angeles, former national open titleholder, for second place.

Bassler shot the final 18 holes in 69 for a total score of 282, winning $250. Dutra finished with a 72 for a total of 283, missing a two-foot putt for the 15th hole and coasting him runner-up honors. His third-place winnings were $150.

Lieutenant Ken Rogers, of the army air corps, proved the surprise contender. He was last amateur and finished in a fourth-place tie with Willie Hunter, veteran Los Angeles pro, at 284.

It was Rogers' first try at medal play.

Mildred Babe Dirlikson, lone woman player, who failed to qualify but continued "just for fun," turned in her best score of the meet today. She shot a 78, giving her a total of 331.

Scores included:

George Von Elm, Hollywood	267-72-279
Harry Bassler, Long Beach	214-68-282
Olin Dutra, Los Angeles	211-72-283

Minnesota To Play L. S. U. in Baseball

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 20. (AP)—Louisiana State University's baseball team will play Minnesota, Northwestern and Iowa this spring and six strong southern opponents.

The schedule, announced by Athletic Director T. P. McNeely, will begin with the St. Louis Cardinals in the first game, followed by the St. Louis Cardinals in the first game, followed by the St. Louis Cardinals in the first game.

Great Publicity If Cards Pay Me $100,000---Dix Joyous Jerome Calls Rickey His Dutch Father and Brendon His Scotch Uncle.

BRADENTON, Fla., Dec. 20. (AP)—Dixie Dean stopped decorating a Christmas tree in his home here long enough to say the St. Louis Cardinals management was going to do the smart thing in keeping him on their pay roll.

In the next breath he announced he had hiked his salary demands from $50,000 to $100,000 "in view of the $400,000 price tag they put on me when they went prospecting."

Dixie insisted it wasn't because he wasn't feeling well. "I never felt better in my life," Dixie said. "I haven't got a thing to worry about and am gonna have one a well Christmas. I've got a big Christmas tree and Christmas Day I'm gonna eat turkey, cranberry sauce and everything else that goes with the bird."

"I wanna wish everybody in this whole world a bright and happy Christmas. I wish old Dixie wish for everybody, including my father."

Rickey, vice president of the Cardinals, and "Uncle Sam" (Sam Brendon, Cardinal president). B. R. is my Dutch father and Mr. Brendon is my Scotch uncle.

Dixie insisted he wasn't kidding about his new salary demands. "If they think I'm worth $400,000," he said, "they should be object to paying me $100,000. Think of the publicity they'd get for paying me a salary. Why Mr. Brendon could take Jake Ruppert's place in baseball as the man who paid a player the biggest salary on record. He could pay me $81,000 and still top Ruppert's best check to Babe Ruth by one grand. But, it will take some time to figure."

The colorful right-handed pitcher agrees with Mr. Rickey that the Cardinals with me and Lon Warlick will win the National League pennant next season. "I'm keeping in great shape by playing golf and the Cards can count on me turning in a good record next year. They'll get a $100,000 worth of pitching from old Dixie. No, I don't think they will trade me. They can't get that big Dean, St. Louis Cardinal pitcher, for the reason is that they need me."

"Uncle Branch himself admitted I'm a great pitcher when he was trying to pass me along to some other club for a wagon load of dollars plus a whole baseball team."

Plasman, of Vandy, Now Chicago Bear

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 20. (AP)—Richard Plasman, of Miami, Fla., is the latest of Dixie's football stars to join the pro ranks, thereby costing Vandy a cog in its 1937 basketball machine.

The six-foot-four, 220-pound flanker returned from Chicago yesterday with a contract to play with the Bears of that city. A few days ago, Henry Hammond, Southwestern griddle and also an end, signed with the Bears.

Coach Jim Buford was counting on Plasman as the center of the Vandy court five this season, but now he is ineligible.

Monroe New Team In Cotton States

GREENVILLE, Miss., Dec. 20. (AP)—Monroe, La., will replace Cleveland, Miss., in the Cotton States Baseball league next season, it was announced at the annual meeting here today.

It was also reported that the Jackson, Miss., team might be moved to Vicksburg, Miss., as that Jackson would be entered in a proposed Class B league. The Cotton States is in the Class C league.

Vols and Duke Won't Renew Contract

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 20. (AP)—Robert R. Neyland, head coach and athletic director at the University of Tennessee, announced last night the Tennessee's contract with Duke, expiring next year, would not be renewed and that football teams of the two schools would not meet in 1938 or 1939.

Auburn, now playing Tennessee early in October, will be moved back to the November Saturday heretofore occupied by Duke.

Major Neyland said the series likely would be resumed in 1940. He added: "We regret our inability to meet Duke next year, but, upon communicating with Duke officials at Durham, we found they already had filled the date on which he planned to play them in 1938."

CHILDS TAKES TURKEY SHOOT

Dr. LeRoy Childs won the turkey which was offered as prize in the special Christmas turkey shoot at the West End Gun Club yesterday. Childs' scores of 24 and 25 for a 49x50 was the best made at the club during the day. C. W. "Ruddy" Jones, the professional ace, finished as runner-up to Dr. Childs, but his professional rating made him ineligible for the prize. Jones and Childs scored the only perfect runs of the day.

Second and third place battles in the shoot produced ties when Luther V. Vickers and Lyman Smith both finished with scores of 47 each. They will receive fruit cakes.

Mrs. J. C. Ellis posted the best score for ladies by breaking 37x50 target.

New shooters included Jack Savage, city attorney, who made his first attempt at skeet shooting. Others were R. S. Lawrence, Dr. C. M. Burns, C. M. Hassel, Carl Hartuff, C. S. Maslin, Ryan Andrews and Dr. Willis Smith.

Among out-of-town shooters taking part in the program were Gordon Hight and Noel Alexander, of Rome, Ga., and Sam Ham, of Gainesville, Fla.

Heavy winds swept the field during the entire day which made the shooting very sporty to both the contestants and the spectators.

Complete scores were as follows:

Dr. LeRoy Childs	49
Luther V. Vickers	47
Lyman Smith	47
Clint Davis	47
Dr. Gordon Hight	45
R. E. Vickers	43
C. M. Burns	42

W. R. Potts, who gained duckpin prominence when he won the left-hand tournament last year, gained a distinction as he bowled 624 to win the suit of clothes and annex the title for the handpin duckpin bowling games of 1936-1937. Potts, 35, a 15-year-old bowler, won the title by a score of 131 to 127 and 101 to 95 in the final two games.

Bowling games of 101-119-125-127 and 101 to 95 in the final two games.

Potts has a reputation for being "under fire" in the game. He has won four titles in a row for a few frames between four of the bowlers as to who would finish on top, steady and consistent play scores.

George Hiram Vandy, of the City and Businessmen's Duckpin League, won the title of the title league, tied for runner-up position with 619 each. George W. Wright, of the State League, won fourth with 603 and C. E. Hollifield had 590.

Mrs. Luther Tiedeman won the top prize of a pair of champion bowling shoes in the ladies' handpin bowling competition with a score of 131 to 127 and 101 to 95 in the final two games.

George W. Wright, of the State League, won fourth with 619 each. George W. Wright, of the State League, won fourth with 603 and C. E. Hollifield had 590.

JACKET CAPTAIN IS DUE TO REPORT AT TECH TODAY

Scrimmage This Morning Will Be Final Before Bear Game.

By Jack Troy.

Captain FitzSimons, Tech's All-Southeastern guard, is going to play against the California Bears Saturday afternoon at Grant field unless complications follow the leg infection from which he is now fully recovered. That was the word yesterday from attending physicians.

They said it was remotely possible there might be minor complications brought about by extensive practice. But the word from Coach W. A. Alexander was that FitzSimons would be working very lightly all week. Captain FitzSimons was carried home from the hospital Friday night. He has been allowed to walk around. He is expected to return to the Tech squad this morning. The Jackets will drill at 9:30 o'clock. And there will be a final scrimmage. Coach Alex said yesterday.

TECH STOCK UP.

Tech's stock jumps a bit with the announcement that Captain FitzSimons will be available for at least part-time duty. For the past two years he has performed in such fashion as to warrant his being named on the All-Southeastern team.

When he was rushed to the hospital a week ago last night suffering from a streptococcal infection which was affecting glands in the groin, it was feared his playing days at Tech were over.

Attending physicians were of the opinion they had got him just in time. For there was a definite threat of blood poisoning. Complete quiet and rest was prescribed. And Captain FitzSimons spent almost a week in the hospital.

A week in bed naturally has left FitzSimons very weak. And there is some question as to how much strength he will be able to regain before Saturday.

NEAR TOP FORM.

On the other hand, he has bounced back from a serious infection so wonderfully it is likely he will be in something approximating top form following four or five days of running.

The long rest has served another purpose well. Captain FitzSimons had a bad ankle injury. He was in the Georgia game for only five plays. The first five. His loss thereafter hurt the Jackets cause.

The rest has allowed his ankle to heal. So everything seems to have worked out all right.

There is an old saying that everything happens for the best.

The scrimmage this morning will be Tech's last. Charley Preston, able center who has been shifted to tackle, has recovered from virtually a week-long siege of flu, and will be scrimmaged at the left tackle position for the first time since he was shifted.

ILL LAST WEEK.

All last week he was hors de combat because of illness. So, naturally, the three scrimmages held by the Jackets did not include him.

Preston has not always been a center. He played guard for two years at Boys High. He played guard as a freshman at Tech. Then, as a sophomore, he played part of the year as a defensive center and a defensive guard.

It is believed he will make quite a tackle. He thinks he can play the position all right. He's been thoroughly familiar with the assignments.

A lot of California's power plays are directed over left tackle, the position Charley will play. The plan is to start Glen Chandler, the four-year sophomore tackle, as Preston's running mate.

BOLSTERS LINE.

Return of Captain FitzSimons bolsters line strength no little. For the shifting of Preston was made necessary because Phil Chance, giant tackle who missed the Georgia game altogether, has no chance to play against the Golden Bears because of a knee injury.

The situation is much brighter for the Yellow Jackets. The extra depth of a fine spirit, anyway, and return of a couple of men should fire up the spirit just that much more.

The boys who are conceding the Golden Bears nothing, regardless of their great November record. That is, the Bears' great November record. Tech won only one game during the month. That was the Florida game. A colorful contest is in the offing. The Golden Bears departed yesterday and will reach Atlanta Thursday noon. A squad of 23 players is making the long trip from Berkeley.

Western Grid Stars Drill for Contest

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20. (AP)—Twenty-two college football stars who will play for the west in the Shrine's annual charity East-West game here January 1, assembled here today to start practice at their Palo Alto camp Monday.

The east squad is due Monday at their training quarters at the University of California, Berkeley.

Tech Five Rated 'Dark Horse' Threat

CHAMPIONVOLTS SHOW OLD FORM IN EARLY GAMES

Tennessee, Kentucky, L. S. U. Are Three of Early Favorites.

By Kenneth Gregory, Associated Press Staff Writer.

Preliminary skirmishing with minor league opposition found seven Southeastern conference basketball teams off to the sports war again, and on the basis of reports Tennessee, Kentucky, Louisiana State and Georgia Tech rate early season championship consideration.

The Tennessee Volunteers, title winners in the annual tournament last March through a 29-to-25 triumph over Alabama in the final, completed their pre-holiday slate with three victories in as many starts.

Kentucky's Blue Grass Wildcats, perennial threats for the Southeastern crown, moved down a trio of early foes in championship fashion and Louisiana State displayed precision in trouncing Southwestern of Louisiana, 44 to 10.

Tennessee's victories were over Tennessee Wesleyan, 36 to 20; Carson Newman, 37 to 18, and Clemson, 33 to 23. Kentucky whipped Berea, 70 to 26, Georgetown, 40 to 10, and Xavier, 84 to 28.

ONE THIS WEEK.

One holiday game scheduled to take place tomorrow night.

One of the feature attractions of the year-end sports program is the Sugar Bowl game between the Southeastern and Southwestern conference champions—Tennessee and Arkansas—at New Orleans December 30. It is the first time the two conference champions have met.

Mississippi State's Maroons rang up their second victory of the season last week in turning back Millsaps, 32 to 16. The Maroons previously had beaten Mississippi College, 30 to 25. Alabama started its campaign with a 43-to-23 conquest of the Birmingham Y. M. H. A.

LOSE OPENERS.

Two conference five suffered defeat in season openers. Sewanee was noosed out, 30 to 28, by Hwassee and Auburn's Plainsmen dropped an overtime 35-to-33 decision to the Lanett (Ala.) A. C.

Georgia Tech's Engineers, eliminated in the quarter-finals of the last tournament by Alabama after tripping Vanderbilt, 42 to 37, rank as a distinct "dark horse" threat for the 1937 championship. The Techs were mostly a sophomore aggregation last season and with added experience under fire are likely to furnish plenty of argument in the title question.

Although facing the campaign without several regulars of the past season, Alabama is rated near the top, along with Mississippi State, which was noosed out of the 1936 tournament by Kentucky, 41 to 39, in a nip-and-tuck fray.

Four L. S. U. Gridmen On Rebels' Selection

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Dec. 20.—(AP)—The University of Mississippi all-people eleven as announced today included four members of Louisiana State's championship team. Marquette played two on the mythical team.

Mississippi State, Temple, Tennessee, Tulane and Catholic U. were the other teams represented.

The selections: Tinsley, L. S. U., left end; Carroll, L. S. U., left tackle; Lark, L. S. U., left guard; Schomann, Marquette; center; Bell, Mississippi State, right guard; Kestelina, Catholic, right tackle; Walker, Temple, right end; Ryan, Tulane, left half; Guere, Marquette, right half; Dickson, Tennessee; quarterback; Coffey, L. J. P. C. Scores Early To Defeat Royals Progressives Lead Hogansville Five at Half, 21-2 in 21st Straight Victory.

By Morris Siegel.

J. P. C.'s southeastern championship basketball team clicked with machine-like precision last night and as a result, hung up their second straight victory of the season, drubbing the U. S. Royal outfit of Hogansville. Score was 40 to 20.

The Clubbers got off to a fast start and were never headed. Pony Minsk found the hoop for two straight baskets and then the Progressives started with Morris Katz, Happy Ginsberg and Steve Browdy leading the way.

The Progressives recorded 16 points before the losers were able to make a basket.

The Clubbers were on the long end of a 21-to-2 score at half-time.

The second half was a bit closer with Shep Lauter's crew scoring 19 points while the Royals collected 18. But the first half attack of the Clubbers had removed any hope of the Hogansville team had of winning and stopping the long winning streak of the champions which now has extended to 21 straight.

Morris Katz, ex-Georgia Tech ace, was easily the outstanding player of the night, being a wheelhorse on defense besides gathering nine points to push Happy Ginsberg, who amassed 10, for scoring honors. Bill Copeland, Royal forward, was best for the losers with 6.

The J. P. C. Club suffered their second defeat in as many weeks, this time losing to the Texaco five, 40 to 10.

The Progressives tackle the Frye Institute team, formerly the Chattanooga Postcans, next week.

Cub Keystone, Catcher Lead Fielders, Break Records.

By Sid Feder.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(AP)—It's going to take a lot more than the National League offered this season to move Second Basemen Billy Herman and Catcher Gabby Hartnett, of the Chicago Cubs, out of the fielding championships for their respective positions.

Not only did the two Cubs retain their league fielding titles—Hartnett for the third straight year—but official averages released today showed they turned in two of the half-dozen record-equaling or shattering performances for the season.

Herman tied a league mark he himself set three years ago, by putting out 11 men in a game with the Boston Bees August 1. Hartnett, current "iron man" among the catchers, was behind the plate for the Cubs in 114 games, thus stretching his record of catching more than 100 games a season to 11 years. The last seven of these 11 campaigns have been consecutive, from 1930 through the season ended in September.

LIKE THIS.

With Herman and Hartnett as the only holdovers, the all-league fielding team for the season, including only those who saw action in 100 or more games, lined up this way:

First Base—Gus Suhr, Pittsburgh Pirates, .994.
Second Base—Herman, .973.
Shortstop—Lippy Leo Durocher, St. Louis Cardinals, .971.
Third Base—Joe Stripp, Brooklyn Dodgers, .968.
Outfield—John Cooney, Dodgers, .994.

Angie Cuban, Cubs, .987.
Mel Ott, New York Giants, .984.
Catcher—Hartnett, .991.
Pitcher—Bob Reis, Boston Bees, 1.000 (57 chances, 35 games).

Tex Carlton, Cubs, 1.000 (57 chances, 35 games).

Perhaps the standout among the new records posted was that by Al Lopez, the Boston Bees' catcher, with but one passed ball in all 127 games he caught, eclipsing the mark of two held by five other record holders.

COONEY TIES MARK.

Cooney, .994 average tied the league outfield fielding mark: Stu Martin, the Cards' rookie infielder, tied a league record with 11 assists by a second baseman in one game; Tony Cuccinello, of the Bees, performing in 128 double plays at second base, equalled his own league record set while he was a member of the Cincinnati Reds' cast in 1931.

Outside of the individual records, there was one by the Pirates, with four passed balls for the season, equalling a loop mark, and another by the entire league, with only 65 passed balls, shattering the previous low of 60.

The Cubs topped the club fielding standings, with an average of .976, two points better than the second-place Cardinals.

Other gleamings from the official standings: Linus Frye, the Dodger shortstop recently traded to the Cubs, topped all the infield regulars in making errors—he committed 51 during the campaign.

Pennino and Pacho Clash on Saturday

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(AP)—The usual festivities attending the holiday season have brought a lessening of fight interest, and one of the lightest programs of the year is on tap for ring fans next week.

Probably the most important contest of the program will find Bobby Pacho, Mexican welterweight, tackling Joe Pennino, Brooklyn knockout artist, in an eight-rounder here Saturday night.

queen" during the post-season Orange Bowl football game here New Year's Day between Duquesne and Mississippi State. Joan Taylor, of Miami, was selected to be the "southern queen."

Contract Bridge

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily instalments.

THE PRINCIPLE OF RANK.

With two five-card or longer bid-dable suits of equal length, bid first the higher ranking suit. The only exception to this rule occurs when the higher ranking suit is extremely weak and the lower ranking suit is strong.

The Strength of the Hand.

With two four-card suits, prefer as a rule the higher ranking whenever the lower ranking suit is strong or more (three and one-half honor tricks with well-padded suits or with strength in three suits). In all other cases choice should be made in accordance with the principle of preparedness.

I have stated that the principle of preparedness is essentially a part of the third factor governing choice of suits, the strength of the hand.

The reason why this principle is closely bound up with strength is because of the quality and quantity inferences which are drawn from the sequence of bidding.

TODAY'S HAND.

A team-of-four match, played recently at Crookford's Club, New York, provided an unusual "awing hand."

Both sides vulnerable.

The lead also was the same at both tables, namely, the jack of clubs, but there was a vast difference in the results attained by the two declarers.

In room No. 1, declarer won the first trick with the queen, and promptly launched a cross-ruff. He led the low heart to dummy's king, cashed the ace and king of clubs, discarding a spade and a heart, and then returned to the heart suit. TARZAN'S QUEST No. 1

In the veiled depths of Africa, a file of warriors traveled a gloomy trail. There was caution in their tread, and in their hearts, terror. They were weary, of Tarzan's country, bravest of the brave, but their heart would not quake at the mission they faced?

They believed they traveled secretly, but there was one jungle-bred creature whose keen ears and nostrils caught the sound and scent of their coming. And suddenly the voice of this one drifted down from the trees, "Muivro, what brings my children so far from home?"

The blacks wheeled. They saw nothing, but they knew that voice. "Oh, Bwana," Muivro answered; "it is well that you have come." Tarzan of the Apes dropped down to the trail. "Has harm befallen any of my people?" The black warriors nodded mournfully.

"Bwana, my daughter, has disappeared—vanished as if the air had consumed her," Muivro exclaimed; "we have heard stories that fill us with fear for our girls. We have heard of the terrible Kavuru. In this business, Bwana, there is evil, and dark mystery!"

WOODRING URGES U. S. TO BOLSTER STRENGTH OF NATIONAL DEFENSE

Hike in Manpower, Planes
Is Advocated in View of European Conditions.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Citing the disturbed international situation, Secretary Woodring today recommended increases in trained reserve manpower, fighting airplanes and other equipment for the army.

The War Department chief's annual report, describing progress already made toward a modernized military establishment, said efforts toward this objective should not be permitted to relax.

"In the light of present world conditions," he declared, "we cannot afford to neglect measures for our own national safety. A secure defense is our most dependable guaranty against aggression by others."

For Our Protection.
"Those who interpret the measures of preparedness advocated by this department as preventive of war are uninformed upon the true nature of those measures. They are ones which, menacing none, are solely for our own protection."

"They involve the maintenance of only a small regular army, but one which must be well trained and well equipped so that in war it may serve as the nucleus of our citizen forces."

Woodring advocated the creation of an enlisted reserve of 150,000 expansion of the regular guard to 210,000 from its present strength of 187,000 and maintenance of the regular army at its present authorized minimum enlisted strength.

2,000 More Officers.
He also asked for 2,000 more regular officers, to be added during the next five years, and increased summer training facilities to care for an expansion of 10,000 in the number of reserve officers and 20,000 in the number of youths trained annually.

The war secretary said of the air force: "The program for procurement of aircraft should be accelerated to provide for the delivery of sufficient combat airplanes annually to reach the authorized total of 2,320 serviceable military airplanes as early as practicable."

Woodring recently said he hoped congress would provide funds for the purchase of 700 new planes in the next fiscal year, compared with 500 contracted for in the current year. The army now has in service approximately 1,500 airplanes.

Sufficiently large appropriations also should be made annually, his report said, to complete the equipment of the regular army with modern weapons, transportation and communication facilities "within a reasonable time."

Woodring said that "members of both houses of congress have shown increased interest in a sound national defense."

ATLANTAN IS GIVEN PI KAPPA ALPHA POST

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 20.—(AP) National officers of Pi Kappa Alpha, college social fraternity, tonight appointed Robert M. McFarland Jr., of Atlanta, executive secretary of the organization.

He has been acting in the post since the fraternity's New Orleans convention in September. The officers will name their 1937 convention city tomorrow.

McFarland resides at 1139 St. Louis place, N. E. He is a cotton broker and has been a resident of Atlanta about 20 years. A native of Henderson, Ky., he is an alumnus of Georgia Tech.

JOHN RUFUS PHILLIPS
PASSES AT RESIDENCE

John Rufus Phillips, 76, a native of Henry county and a resident of Atlanta most of his life, died yesterday at the residence, 1653 Johnson road, N. E.

Mr. Phillips was employed as a cabinet maker. He was a life member of the Piedmont Lodge No. 447, F. & A. M.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock today from the Spring Hill chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son, Dr. Ryland Knight officiating. Burial will be in Hollywood cemetery.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Robert E. Smith, Mrs. Paul T. Johnson and Miss Anna Phillips.

CLEAR, CRISP WEATHER WILL CONTINUE TODAY

A continuation of the clear, crisp weather of yesterday is in store for Atlanta today and tomorrow, it was forecast last night by meteorologists at the Candler field station of the United States Weather Bureau.

The temperature range will be slightly greater than that of yesterday. The mercury is expected to rise this afternoon to a maximum of approximately 53 degrees after a predicted start early this morning of 28 degrees.

Yesterday's range was from 30 to 48 degrees.

SOLUTION OF TENANCY UP TO U. S.—ALEXANDER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(UP)—Government aid is necessary to lift the nation's tenant farmers from stark poverty, acting Resettlement Administrator W. W. Alexander said tonight.

Alexander is a member of a committee named by President Roosevelt to study the tenancy problem and submit recommendations for relief legislation, expected to form the basis of a vigorous drive for congressional action early in the new session.

STRAIGHT PIN TAKEN FROM LUNG OF CHILD

Surgeons using a fluoroscope and delicate bronchoscopic instruments removed a straight pin from the lung of 7-year-old Maxine Ballew, of Alto, Ga., Saturday night.

The child's condition after the tedious operation was reported fair by hospital attendants.

This was the third bronchoscopic operation here within as many days.

NOTED SURGEON PASSES.
LONDON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Sir John Bland-Sutton, consulting surgeon in Middlesex hospital and former president of the Royal College of Surgeons, died today. He was born in 1855 and entered the Middlesex hospital when he was 23. He was knighted in 1912 and created a baronet in 1925.
